Eight Injured in Auto Accidents

FEAR TWO FATALLY HURT

Face of Orange Woman Is Frightfully Lacerated In Collision

CORONAN, AGED 76, IN CRITICAL STATE

Machine Dives Over Embankment as Driver Loses Control

Eight persons were injured, two of them critically, in week-end automobile accidents in Orange county.

The injured were: Asa French, 76, Corona. Mrs. Lizzie Perkins, Corona. John Heligass, Santa Ana. William Whitehead, Irvine. Mrs. M. K. Baessler, Orange. Mrs. W. Martin, Santa Ana. R. E. Thomas, Tustin. An unidentified woman from Corona.

Those perhaps fatally injured were French and Mrs. Baessler. They are confined at the Community hospital here.

Mrs. Baessler was injured in a crash near Bolsa, about 7:45 p. m. yesterday. According to a report made by Baessler, she was driving toward Santa Ana, when he heard a crash, of automobiles colliding. The next moment, a large touring car crossed the road in front of him, and wrecked his car, he said. Mrs. Baessler sustained "the most frightful facial lacerations possible," according to the physician who operated on her after she was brought to the hospital here. In addition, she suffered greatly from loss of blood, sustained before she received treatment.

If she recovers, as was regarded doubtful today, she will be discharged for life, the physician stated.

Pedestrian Struck. Thomas was struck by an automobile driven by William Edwards, Santa Diego, at Second and E streets, Tustin, at 11:55 a. m. yesterday. He was walking when the car hit him, according to C. R. Lambert, Tustin, who made the report at police headquarters here today. Thomas was bruised, but otherwise was not hurt, the report stated.

French, Mrs. Perkins, and the woman whose name was not ascertained at the hospital, had been at Newport Beach and were starting for Laguna Beach when the accident occurred. Although they could give but meager details of the happening, it was believed that they turned off toward Balboa Falls by mistake.

According to French, the automobile in which they were riding was unable to make the hill, and when it started rolling down backward, he lost control of it. The machine plunged down an embankment, pinning the occupants beneath it.

Shoulder Fractured. French sustained a fractured shoulder, and because of his advanced age, his condition was regarded as serious.

Mrs. Perkins sustained severe lacerations about the head and face, while her right ear was virtually severed from her head. The accident occurred about 1 p. m. yesterday.

Mrs. Martin, 1616 West Third street, was on her way to church last evening, when, at Sixth and Ross streets, she was run down by an automobile said to have been driven by G. E. McCarter. She sustained a fractured left arm.

According to McCarter, he swerved to avoid striking another automobile, and struck Mrs. Martin instead. Her condition was not regarded as critical at the Community hospital, where she was confined today.

Heligass was hit by an automobile in front of the Spurgeon building on West Fourth street yesterday noon. He sustained a fractured right arm, and was taken to the Community hospital.

Boy's State Serious. William Whitehead, the boy who was struck by J. L. Hunter, San Juan Capistrano, near Irvine Saturday morning, will be confined to the Community hospital.

Highway Commission Ready to Fight For Cash Settlements

SACRAMENTO, March 19.—Members of the state highway commission announced today that they will stand pat on their plan to make "cash settlements" in terminating road building contracts let by the former commission.

This is direct challenge to the verbal opinion given Saturday by Attorney General U. S. Webb that such settlements would be illegal. "This is plainly a test of the commission's power," declared Paul Fretessa, attorney for the highway board. "We will carry our fight to the courts and to the legislature."

OIL MEN ARE BARRED FROM BURIAL PLOT

Armed Guards Patrol Cemetery to Prevent Drillers From Disturbing Graves.

PONCA CITY, Okla., March 19.—Armed guards patrolled the United Brethren cemetery here today to prevent oil men from desecrating the burial spot of 250 pioneers.

At the same time the district court here was called on to decide the issue between man's craving for oil and money and the sanctity of the dead.

The oil men claim they have a lease on the graveyard and are ready to begin operations as soon as the armed resistance can be overcome.

The community committee, relatives of the dead, who are defending their claim with force, maintain the lease of the oil people specifies the cemetery is hallowed ground.

Several days ago oil men who came to inspect the plot were thrown bodily from the churchyard by the irate relatives who patrol the graves.

Works in Daytime. As was the case when the four homes were entered last Friday afternoon, the burglar worked in the daytime, when the occupants of the house were absent. Neighbors saw a man, well dressed, who fitted the description of the man seen about the houses entered last week. His supposed feminine companion, described as a pretty young girl, did not accompany him, so far as was observed.

The list of jewelry stolen at the Hinze home included: Three wedding rings, a signet ring, a lavaller, with eight diamonds and three pearls, a ring with a green stone, a bracelet and a bank book.

RULES OUT TAXES ON FARM BANK MORTGAGES

WASHINGTON, March 19.—States cannot impose taxes on mortgages negotiated by the federal farm loan banks, the supreme court held today.

It overruled decisions of the courts in Alabama which upheld a tax of 15 per cent per hundred in accordance with an Alabama law on a mortgage of the federal farm loan bank at New Orleans, signed by D. W. Crossland of Montgomery county.

State laws in conflict in this respect were held unconstitutional.

No-Fund Check Bill Pleas Swamp Dr. Ball at Capital

Dr. C. D. Ball, of this city, assemblyman of the seventy-sixth district, heard the home folks the first time, he said, in a communication which he addressed to The Register and in which he commented on a deluge of communications urging him to support Assembly Bill No. 15, making it prima facie evidence of felony to draw a no-fund or an insufficient funds check.

"This S. O. S. is from Sacramento," he wrote, adding that his "trouble" made him "the victim of a shower not equalled by that of any June bride in the past ten years. He said that the "shower has attained such startling proportions that it becomes necessary for me to ask space in The Register, in which to reply."

Continuing, Dr. Ball wrote: "I might say that scores of letters have been received, not only from the Chamber of Commerce, Merchants and Manufacturers' association, electric companies, gas companies, but from individual merchants, druggists, dentists, optometrists and everyone else, except clergymen and undertakers. I take it that the preachers are not worried by checks of any sort and that the undertakers are satisfied to take all there is left when a man dies."

"Dear Home Folks: I heard you the first time, so please don't enclose. Surely the no-fund situation in Santa Ana must be desperate. Apparently there are more no-fund checks in the sum total of the communications regarding the bill received by all the other members of the assembly by about three score. The situation being so acute in Santa Ana, rest assured that I will do all in my power to pass the bill, even if it lands half of us in the pen. I say 'us,' for alas, too often I slip into the 'red' in my own bank account."

"No. 15 is in committee and many contend that it is unconstitutional. Be that as it may, if it comes out of committee I pledge you that I will support it."

"Your obedient servant," "C. D. BALL."

FOUR DEAD IN COLORADO STORM

NEW ROBBERY RAIDS MADE BY 'SNAKE'

Mystery Burglar Procures $600 Loot; Purloined Stock Is Returned

Within 48 hours after the time when he had completed a $4,000 series of burglaries in the southern portion of Santa Ana, the "snake burglar" had returned unneighbourly securities worth $3,700, and visited two more residences in the same district, taking loot valued at $600, it was learned today.

The residences robbed in the latter attempt were those of: M. S. Cloyes, 808 South Broadway.

Mrs. Olive Hinze, 701 South Ross street.

At the Cloyes residence, two diamond rings, worth $250 in the aggregate, and a check for $2.50 were stolen.

Jewelry valued at $355 was stolen from the Hinze residence.

Yesterday, as members of the family of R. E. Coulter, 424 South Birch street, whose home was robbed on the first appearance of the "snake," were returning, they discovered a package, containing thirty-seven shares of Southern California Edison company stock, worth $3,700, hidden near the door. The fact that these are not negotiable led the thief to return them, police believe.

Works in Daytime. As was the case when the four homes were entered last Friday afternoon, the burglar worked in the daytime, when the occupants of the house were absent. Neighbors saw a man, well dressed, who fitted the description of the man seen about the houses entered last week. His supposed feminine companion, described as a pretty young girl, did not accompany him, so far as was observed.

The list of jewelry stolen at the Hinze home included: Three wedding rings, a signet ring, a lavaller, with eight diamonds and three pearls, a ring with a green stone, a bracelet and a bank book.

French Troops Nab SLAYING SUSPECTS

DUSSELDORF, March 19.—French troops today caught a German suspected of being the assassin of Private Schmidt, sentry of the army of occupation, shot in the dark at the Essen railway station Saturday. If the suspect is convicted by court martial he will be executed immediately. Three other Germans captured near the station shortly after the shot that killed the sentry were fired, are held. A fourth, shot while running away, died of wounds.

French troops withdrawing from Obenhansen wrecked the railroad station. The ticket offices and waiting rooms were demolished with bayonets and hammers. The first instance of destruction of this nature reported since the occupation. The reason is not given.

Orphans Form Bucket Brigade and Save Home from Fire

HEALDSBURG, Calif., March 19.—Orphans at the Lytton Springs Salvation Army orphanage formed a bucket brigade early today and checked a fire which threatened to destroy the orphanage.

The flames were confined to the main school building which was burned at a loss estimated by Colonel A. Smeeton, in charge, at $25,000.

The youthful fire fighters prevented spread of the fire to the dormitory and adjacent buildings.

The cause of the blaze was not determined.

Significance was attached to the fact that it was the second serious fire in Sonoma county charitable institutions within a week. The first fire was in the state industrial home for women at Sonoma last week.

TWO HUNDRED PRISONERS OF REDS KILLED

200 Enemies of Soviet Government Are Executed and Bodies Thrown Into Street.

PARIS, March 19.—Two hundred political prisoners were executed today by "Reds" in Georgia and their bodies thrown into the streets, according to a Constantinople dispatch to the Journal Des Debats.

As a protest six hundred other prisoners in Metekhi fortress went on a hunger strike.

The Tcheka "Red" secret police have ordered a number of towns in Gouri province burned.

The Georgia republic, although communistic, is one of the few Bolshevik states that has not been assimilated into the federation of Russian republics.

SENATE PASSES BILL URGED BY WOMEN

SACRAMENTO, March 19.—The state senate today passed Senate Bill No. 228, a community property measure which aroused wide interest through the state since its introduction by Senator Jones.

The measure provides that both the husband and wife have the right to will one-half of the community property. Under the existing law the property goes to the husband upon the wife's death. Upon the death of either without a will the community property will revert to the other, the bill also provides.

The upper house also passed a bill allowing high school boards to build and equip dormitories when necessary.

The Hurley barber bill was amended to exclude beauty shops from state inspection. Term of apprenticeship was reduced from three to one years. The bill will come up for passage tomorrow.

The assembly passed a measure permitting voters thirty days grace to change registration when moving from one precinct to another.

On motion of Assemblyman Koine, a series of senate bills raising salaries of judges in several counties was referred to the ways and means committee where they will be retained until after the budget is approved.

Governor Richardson today sent the assembly a message urging emergency consideration of Senate Bill No. 188, which authorizes leasing of a portion of the state property at Norwalk for exploitation.

3 TOTS LOSE FIGHT WITH BLIZZARD

Terrific Gale Sweeps Mid-West Halting Traffic; Loss Heavy

(By United Press Leased Wire) DENVER, Colo., March 19.—At least four persons are dead as a result of the terrific blizzard which swept Colorado Saturday, according to reports here today.

The three small children of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Evans were found frozen to death in a small shanty, near Pueblo, where they had sought refuge from the storm. It is believed the children became lost on their way to school in the gale which caused $100,000 damage to Pueblo.

Four other persons are missing and it is feared they have perished. Thomas Reed, 75, was found frozen to death on the prairie near his home. Reed had driven to Colorado Springs and on the return trip was forced to abandon his automobile because of the blinding snow.

CHICAGO, March 19.—The entire country from the Rocky mountains to the Alleghenies, was in the grip of a blizzard today.

Damage to the Kansas potato crop and the Oklahoma peach crop will be heavy, experts say. Wire communication was paralyzed in many sections. Telegraph and telephone companies reported miles of wire down. Passenger service on railroads was curtailed. Freight embargoes were placed in effect in several sections.

Sub-zero temperatures were reported throughout the entire west. Nebraska, Wyoming, Colorado, Wisconsin and Iowa advised declared the storm was the most severe in twenty-five years. The gale was accompanied by a heavy fall of snow, swept into mountainous drifts by the wind.

Forty families, including many children, were forced to flee into the street scantily clad when flames destroyed a large apartment building here. Damage was estimated at $75,000.

More than $25,000 damage was done to a business block in the heart of Omaha's downtown section when fire broke out during the storm.

Chicago was threatened with a milk famine as dairymen found it impossible to bring their supply over impassable roads.

The storm swept out of the northwest causing temperatures to drop 20 to 50 degrees in a few hours.

BANDITS' LOOT IN BOLD L. A. JOB $30,000

(By United Press Leased Wire) LOS ANGELES, March 19.—Three automobile bandits this morning held up a Sam Zelig collection agent at the busy corner of Boylston and Beaudry streets, and escaped with between $25,000 and $30,000.

The agent, Clarence Dale, was making collections for Zelig's branch stores at the time. The bandit car forced his machine to the curb. One of the three men carried a revolver and the other a shotgun. They ordered Dale to get out of the car and the bandit with the revolver covered him while the other removed the satchel containing the money.

Dale was ordered to walk slowly down the street in the opposite direction while the bandits escaped west on Sixth street and were soon lost in the heavy traffic.

The holdup took place so quickly that scores of persons witnessing it had no time to interfere or call for help.

Several squads of police with armored cars were immediately sent out in the surrounding district. A good description of the bandits and their car was obtained.

President Plans Wide Swing Through West In Race for Ballots

WASHINGTON, March 19.—The "winning of the west" will be the first objective of President Harding's campaign for re-election, which has been definitely started by the executive's close political associate, Attorney General Daugherty.

The president and his political advisers are understood here to have decided that to attain a Republican victory in 1924, the great bulk of the states in the middle west and far west must be carried.

Already invitations from scores of Chautauques, county and state fairs, and other gatherings, are pouring into the White House from the west.

It is now believed the president may make as many as forty addresses on the tour, in addition to many short talks from the rear platform of his special train. His expected trip to Alaska, after a strenuous westbound speaking tour, will give him the opportunity to rest up before a similar eastbound trip.

CARR SALARY CASE UNDER ADVISEMENT

Legality of Prober's Appointment Hinges on Supreme Court Ruling, Says Court.

The legality of O. K. Carr's appointment as special investigator, recently authorized by the board of supervisors, hinges on the recent decision of the supreme court, which prohibits the appointment of additional deputies, according to Superior Judge R. Y. Williams, who today took under advisement the petition for a writ of mandamus filed against County Auditor W. C. Jerome to compel him to pay a month's salary alleged due to Carr.

Following Carr's appointment, Jerome refused to honor his salary warrant. Carr, through Attorney W. F. Menton, instituted mandamus proceedings, and Jerome, represented by District Attorney A. P. Nelson, answered, stating that the board and Nelson had acted without authority, and that the appointment constituted the addition of a deputy to the sheriff's force.

After hearing the case, and listening to authorities submitted, Judge Williams said that the only difficulty might lie in a violation of the recent ruling of the supreme court.

HOT CLASH BREWS IN WARDS

Crasher and Purinton Now Definitely In Race for Council Posts

DEADLINE NEARING FOR ENTERING RACE

Nominating Petitions All Must Be In By Noon Tomorrow

That hot political fights have developed in at least two of the five wards of the city, was definitely revealed today, when Dr. Elliott H. Rowland announced his candidacy for councilman from the fourth ward, and L. Crasher and Frank Purinton cast aside all doubt as to their intention by taking out nomination petitions as candidates for the council from the fourth and fifth wards, respectively.

Entrance of Rowland and Crasher in the fight in the fourth ward made it a three-cornered contest. Purinton also makes the third man out in the fifth. He is going to vie with N. E. Wray and Nat Neff for representative from that ward.

City Clerk Ed Vegely today called attention to the fact that 12 p. m. tomorrow is the last hour for filing nominating petitions. Those who are debating throwing their hats into the ring must decide for or against the step by that hour.

My food failed to digest and I bloated with gas till I was in misery. I was also bothered with terrific pains in my legs, my nerves were all to pieces too, and a good night's sleep was something unknown to me. Everything seemed to be out of order. I just couldn't get regulated, and was all tired-out and run-down.

GENERAL ROYER WILL CASE TRIAL DEFERRED

Because five grandchildren, mentioned as minor heirs in the will of the late General Julian Royer, have no guardians to represent their interests, trial of the will contest brought by his widow and son, set for today in Superior Judge R. Y. Williams' court, was continued to May 1, to permit appointment of guardians.

Royer left the major portion of his estate to Marie Feraud, a nurse, allotting only $30,000 to his widow, and providing that she get nothing if she should contest the instrument.

The widow, and a son, Max Royer, brought contest, on the ground that Miss Feraud influenced Royer, and caused him to sign the will while he was under the influence of drugs.

Attorneys Jones, Thomas, Stevenson and Wilcox of Los Angeles appeared for Miss Feraud.

DEATH CLAIMS BROTHER OF W. A. HUFF

Death through pneumonia came suddenly yesterday afternoon about 1 o'clock to Charles S. Huff, of Alhambra, formerly of Santa Ana, a brother of W. A. Huff.

Mr. Huff was well known and highly respected by all the older residents of the Santa Ana valley, for he came here in the 80's as a boy and grew up in business with his father, T. D. Huff, and his brother, W. A. Huff, as a member of the men's clothing firm of T. D. Huff and Sons. After the death of his father he was a member of the firm of Rankin and Huff.

About nineteen years ago, Mr. Huff disposed of his interests here, and moved away. For years he has been in the real estate business in Los Angeles with his residence at Alhambra. He was a strong, healthy man and sickness was almost unknown to him personally until a few days ago, when he became slightly indisposed. Saturday he was about much as usual, but Saturday evening pains in his lungs developed. Yesterday morning a telephone message was sent to Santa Ana and his brother and Dr. Willis Howe-Warble, mother of Mrs. Huff, went to Alhambra. Pneumonia had developed rapidly during the night and morning, and Mr. Huff died about 1 o'clock.

Mr. Huff leaves a widow, Mrs. Lulu Howe Huff, who is a sister of Mrs. Roscoe Whitted of this city, and two daughters, Misses Helen and Ethel Huff. Mr. Huff was 51 years of age.

The funeral is to be held tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock at the parlors of Turner, Stevens and Turner, at Alhambra.

A wide circle of friends in this county will keenly regret the passing of Mr. Huff, for he was a man of exceptional personality, likeable and loyal, known as a man of sound business judgment and dependability.

They are still trying to find out however, who was responsible for one mistake and gave all the ladies in the party big yellow bouquets Saturday morning, St. Patrick's Day.

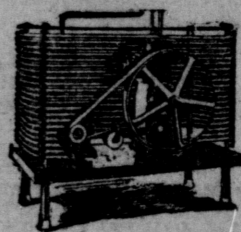

Keeps Milk Sweet For Two Weeks

Of course, no housewife would think of keeping milk for two weeks. But the fact that it can be done shows how efficient Kelvinator refrigeration is.

Kelvinator is the refrigerating equipment which fits right into the ice-box you have now. Its refrigeration is fully 10 degrees colder than ice. Kelvinator supplies dry cold, and keeps your refrigerator at the same even temperature the year 'round.

Kelvinator is the oldest electric refrigerating machine made. Owners who have had their Kelvinators for years will tell you of its dependability and its great efficiency.

EXPECT CROWD TO HEAR TROUBADOURS

Heralded as not only a notable singing organization but also as offering a richly varied program of instrumental selections and character impersonations, the Troubadour Male quartette to appear tonight at the Junior high school assembly room here as a number on the school concert course, was today expected to attract an unusual crowd of those seeking entertainment.

Of the quartette personnel, Ralph Russell, manager and musical director, is also the bass singer and piano accompanist. Much of his training has been with such organizations as the Mendelssohn club of Chicago and the Chicago Musical Arts society while his concertizing has been with the Schubert Concert company and the Landis Singing orchestra.

Ergar Geise, tenor, cornetist and improviser is said to present delightful character songs and cornet numbers that will recall his former successes with the Scotch Highlanders' band, while the first tenor, Mark Cook, combines with an exceptional voice, a pronounced ability to make the violin talk.

Francis Bache, fourth member of the Troubadours and baritone soloist, is said to be a gifted interpreter of the poems of James Whitcomb Riley.

Personals

Mrs. P. T. Isherwood, 521 East Seventeenth street, plans to motor to Long Beach Wednesday where she will attend the Past Chief's society of the Pythian Sisters of which she is an ardent member.

Mrs. Ida V. Blee, 320 Orange avenue, is spending the week-end with her son, Robert H. Blee and his family of Puente.

Among delighted visitors in the city are Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bennett of Burlington, Iowa, who are spending a few days with Mrs. Bennett's sister, Mrs. T. B. Mills, 1409 Bush street ere they continue their tour of the state. Mr. Bennett is proprietor of a chain of tea stores and or seven basket groceries in Iowa but is so impressed with California's charms that he is seriously considering locating in the state. Previous winters have been spent in Florida but it remained for their first winter in California to convince the Iowans of California's superiority.

Bringing to a conclusion a pleasant stay of several weeks at St. Ann's Inn, Mr. and Mrs. John Fry Casper accompanied by their nephews, Kirk and Bruce Casper, yesterday took their departure for a leisurely motor trip to their home in Walla Walla, Wash.

CHAPLIN GETS VOTES
PASADENA, Calif., March 19.—Charlie Chaplin lost a chance to run in the city election for city director here by one vote. If he had received a single additional ballot he would be in the ticket April 5. Yesterday Pasadena went to the polls to vote in the primary for city directors. There was no opposition to Hiram Wadsworth, Franklin Thomas and John H. Simpson, so was writing names on ballots have made it mandatory to put the names of Henry Dickson and Benjamin Strang on the ballot. Charlie Chaplin's vote was one less than received by Dickson and Strang, otherwise it would have been necessary to submit his name at the city election April 5.

Grunion Runs are Expected At Huntington Beach Again

HUNTINGTON BEACH, March 19.—On moonlight nights during March, April, May and June small smelt, called "grunion" in this section of the United States, will make their annual runs all along the shores of the Pacific in Southern California where there is a sandy beach. Last year there were many good runs and "grunion parties" were popular.

The first run occurred Sunday evening at 9:47, and for three nights thereafter these little fish will make their appearance along the shores of Huntington Beach.

Those who have never enjoyed the grunion fishing party have missed a great treat. These little "silversides" as they are called in many localities come in on the highest tides so the female fish may lay their eggs in the sand. They venture as high up on the beach as is possible and burrow a hole into the sand with their tails, some laying their eggs as deep as four inches. These eggs hatch in two weeks and at the next high tide are washed back into the ocean as small smelt.

The high tides at night are about 9 o'clock.

Occasionally when the run is at its height thousands of these little fish can be seen by the moonlight as they try to make their way back into the ocean after spawning.

A great many contrivances have been seen on the beach for catching the grunion, but the best method is said to be with a seine made of copper wire screen fastened to a frame about two by six feet and allowed to bag a little so that they will roll to the center when the waves are passed and the seine is lifted from the sand. Many merely use their hands to catch them and parties have been known to catch as many as a half peck full by this method. The fish average about four inches in length and the male is smaller than the female.

The complete table follows: April 1, full moon, high tide, 9:35; April 2, high tide, 10:14; April 3, high tide, 10:53; April 30, full moon, high tide, 9:06; May 1, high tide, 9:46; May 2, high tide, 10:29; May 30, full moon, high tide, 9:35; May 31, high tide, 10:08; June 1, high tide, 10:53; June 27, high tide, 8:28; June 28, full moon, high tide, 9:12; June 29, high tide, 9:53; June 30 high tide, 10:36.

CLEAN-UP DAY IS PLANNED BY CITY

HUNTINGTON BEACH, March 19.—Easter will herald many new features in this city in addition to the regular spring time bonnets. Numerous new automobiles of all makes and nearly every hue are already rolling up and down the street displaying their dustless brightness. New bathing suits begin to decorate the beach during the heat of the day; and couples have commenced the signs of "spring madness" in their twilight and evening strolls along the ocean shore.

But the real spring opening will formally take place the two or three days before Easter Sunday. Directed by the Chamber of Commerce, through its secretary, Frank Swartz, all hands will turn to the "spring housecleaning" of the vacant lots and open spaces of the city. Boy Scouts will, as always, lend a helping hand and complete co-operation of the city officials is pledged.

The merchants will have their annual display of brand new wares and shined up "left overs." The sacred introduction of nature's most beautiful part of the year will take place, as it did last year, at the end of the pier, when all churches will join in a sunrise ceremony Easter morning. A table will serve as an altar and fitting exercises are being planned.

Although April Fool's day does coincide with Easter Sunday this year, no doubt many kiddies, at least, who will be celebrating the initiation of the spring rest from school duties, will find an opportunity to remind each other and their grown up friends that legitimate joking time comes but once a year and it also is in honor of the formal introduction of spring.

NEW INSTRUCTOR FOR BEACH PLUNGE

HUNTINGTON BEACH, March 19.—Frank Rives, who was to have taken charge of the swimming instruction at the plunges, was relieved of his agreement to come to Huntington Beach last week by Manager John M. Barlow, that he might accept the offer of the Olympic club of San Francisco. Three other men are being considered for the position at present and the name of the best qualified man will be made public this week.

Concessions for attractions on the beach are being made now by the Huntington Beach company, and the "opening date" is set for April 1. The professional life saver and swimmer will also be on duty by that time.

The new filtering plant, which is the largest and reported to be the best in the state, is in full operation at the plunge. Arrangements are being made to glass in the machinery of the plant for public display.

About 300 new lockers are being installed, and Manager Barlow assures his patrons that he will be able to accommodate nine hundred swimmers at one time without doubling up.

Speaking of Sunday patrons, who made a large showing in the plunge, very few braving the temperature of the ocean, Mr. Barlow called attention to the many guests from Santa Ana, showing that the visitor's season had already opened.

Huntington Beach Briefs

HUNTINGTON BEACH, March 19.—Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Marland, 5215 Figueroa street, Los Angeles, were the weekend end guests of Mrs. Maude Derby and her son, Carl, 509 Ninth street.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Biery, who have been spending a month with their son, E. A. Biery, 209 Fourth street, left for Vallejo Thursday to visit another son. They will return to Wheeling, West Virginia, via Huntington Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Proctor, 213 Fourteenth street, enjoyed Sunday dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Buschard, near Talbert.

The new duplex bungalow on Twelfth street near Ocean avenue belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Phil Drane will be ready for occupancy in a few days. They are planning to move from their present residence, 314 Fifth street, before April 1.

MARRIAGE ANNOUNCED. HUNTINGTON BEACH, March 19.—Announcements of the marriage of Miss Elsie Lake, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Lake of Eighteen street, to Prof. Frank Smith, formerly of the science department of the high school, have been received by their friends in this city. The ceremony took place in Carson City, Nevada, February 16.

BEACH COUNCIL BACK FROM JOURNEY

HUNTINGTON BEACH, March 19.—From Los Angeles to Palo Alto by coast route, from San Francisco to Los Angeles by inland route was the trip reported by the six city officials who returned to their homes in time to spend Sunday with their wives.

Although they have made no official report concerning the trip, all are agreed that they had a most profitable tour as well as a jolly good time. The route which they followed is briefly as follows:

Following the coast line they paid visits to Ventura and Santa Barbara, arriving in Santa Maria Sunday afternoon. Monday morning they devoted to inspecting the paving system and water power plant of that city. At luncheon they were the guests of E. A. Rable, the city's mayor at the Santa Maria club.

Monday night was spent at Salinas and Tuesday noon they reached Palo Alto. An inspection tour of all of the publicly owned and manipulated departments of this famed city was made Tuesday afternoon. Particular notice was given to the roads and water works and garbage incinerator.

Tuesday night and Wednesday morning were spent in San Francisco, and Wednesday afternoon they arrived in the state capital, where they spent the day in a far reaching investigation of roads and road paving.

Friday was, perhaps, the most eventful day of the six, as the seven passenger Hudson kept to the road from seven in the morning until seven in the evening. Quickly passing through Modesto, Madera, Fresno, Tulare and Delano they dined in Bakersfield in the early evening.

Then the Ridge route with its famed curves and crests served as Saturday's pastime, which members of the party reported as perfectly harmless from the traveling standpoint, but very attractive from the scenic and "pavement" outlook. The men who made the trip were, Councilmen Richard Drew, J. H. Macklin, and R. O'Barry; City Engineer Louis F. Gates, City Attorney Lou Blodgett, and Ed. Manning, member of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

SACRED CEREMONIAL SHOWS GIRLS' AIMS

HUNTINGTON BEACH, March 19.—Eighteen girls in their Indian-like ceremonial costumes joined in the sacred birthday rituals conducted by the joint group of the Camp Fire Girls in the kindergarten of the grammar school yesterday afternoon at five o'clock.

It was a beautiful ceremony. Doors, wide open, allowed the mystic stillness of the twilight air to wait gently through the room flickering now and then the tapering flames of the many candles burning in their earthen holders in the center of the space semi circled by the Camp Fire novices. Green boughs, which almost completely hid the background wall, enhanced the spring-like, "woody" atmosphere. The girls themselves, with their symbolic head bands of colored beads and leather fringed costumes, reminded one of an American "wig-wag" company of long ago.

However, as the symbolic lights of work, health and love were lit by Marian Gleaves, Louise Wallace, and Virginia Ward, and as other candles representing the various parts of the slogan of the Camp Fire, "Seek Beauty, Give Service, Be Trustworthy, Hold On to Health, Glorify Work and Be Happy," were lit by different girls of the groups accompanied by readings from the Scripture lesson of passages exemplifying the motto, no one could doubt that they were in a ceremony conducted by American girlhood with real American ideals and ideals of true womanhood.

Two members of the semi circle, entered the order of Woodgatherer. Crossing their palms with those of the mother guardian, Mrs. Gertrude Howard, master of the ceremonies, Miss Henrietta Horne, history teacher and guardian of the Manaraha Camp Fire, and Miss Effie Howe, whose birthday anniversary was celebrated yesterday, repeated the Woodgatherer's desire and entered its mystic realms.

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS
YOST—Four acts of vaudeville and "Lights of New York," with Marc MacDermott.
WEST END—"The White Flower," with Betty Compson.
PRINCESS—"The Power of a Lie," with Mabel Julienne Scott.

"LIGHTS OF NEW YORK" AT YOST TONIGHT

"Lights of New York," the latest William Fox production which comes to the Yost theater tonight is a vivid picture of life in the great city. In this monster photoplay Fox has incorporated two sides of life in New York. They might be termed "Up" and "Down." In the first section, according to advance reports, the film producer shows how easy it is for a man with determination to succeed. In the latter half he shows the simplicity of downfall.

Marc MacDermott, one of the pioneers of the motion picture industry, is cast in the leading role. Those who have seen the picture claim that in the portrayal of the man who loses his fortune, all for the love of a girl, MacDermott does the best work of his extended screen career.

Wherever this beautiful photoplay has been shown critics have been loud in their praise.

The picture has been directed by Charles J. Brabin, one of the leading directors in film and has been acclaimed as one of the classiest of film and teaches a lesson with real life and teaches a lesson which will imprint itself on the minds of everyone in the audience.

"THE FAMOUS MRS. FAIR" AT PRINCESS TOMORROW

Fred Niblo has not disappointed the hope and trust reposed in him in his handling of James Forbes' clever comedy, "The Famous Mrs. Fair," which Mr. C. E. Wainwright brought direct from a record breaking run at Loew's State theater and which will be shown at the Princess theater for two days beginning tomorrow. He has not in any way altered or detracted from the stage version, merely filling in the background as set forth in the dialogue and brought into stronger and clearer relief the main theme, thereby making the tale more entertaining.

Niblo has been fair in his picture. He has not spared the husband and father. He has not only brought out the frailty of Mrs. Fair, deluded into the belief that it is altruism that spurs her on to a larger sphere of usefulness though her family suffer, but he shows the gullibility of the man and his selfishness towards his children. The deterioration of the family and the breaking of ties of the hearthstone with remarkable understanding for the trivial as well as the spectacular things that spell domestic comedy and tragedy.

Myrtle Stedman's conception of Mrs. Fair is a more femininely consistent picture than Branche Bates' portrait. Huntley Gordon as Mr. Fair, gives another fine satire on masculine weakness, delicately human in the admixture of comedy and tragedy.

Marguerite de la Motte gives a notable interpretation of the neglected daughter who buds and blossoms prematurely without the guidance of an understanding mother. Cullen Landis offers a vigorous fistic encounter with the villain played smoothly by Ward Crane, and a sportsmanlike auto race.

There will be two matinees each day at 1:30 and 3:15 o'clock and two performances in the evenings at 6:30 and 8:45 o'clock.

MANY BEAUTIES IN "THE WHITE FLOWER"

Tall girls and short girls; slim girls and girls not quite so pretty, but girls, girls, girls, scores of them, all dressed up in their nicest frocks, stormed the office of the Doyle touring service in Honolulu to apply for jobs as minor actresses in Betty Compson's latest picture, "The White Flower," which was produced in the Hawaiian Islands, and which is now showing at the West End theater.

A general invitation had been issued to Honolulu girls by Manager Griffith of the Compson company to apply for places in the scenes requiring many people.

Mrs. Julia Crawford Ivers, who wrote the story of and directed the picture, secured the most beautiful girls in the islands to serve as "atmosphere" for the action of Miss Compson, Edmund Lowe, Edward Martindel, Leon Barry, Sylvia Ashton, Arline Pretty, Arthur Hoyt and the other members of the cast.

"THE CHRISTIAN" DUE AT TEMPLE WEDNESDAY

The super-feature, "The Christian," adapted from Sir Hall Caine's most famous novel, directed by Maurice Tourneur, will be shown at the Temple theater for five days beginning Wednesday.

This photoplay is a credit to everyone concerned in its production; it takes rank among the really big films of the year. Director and principals were sent to England to make exterior scenes in London, at Cambridge, at the Derby at Epsom Downs and on the Isle of Man where the big thrilling climaxes of the story take place. The author gave his assistance to the director in obtaining the correct atmosphere and in getting the consent of the London officials to photograph the big mob scene in Trafalgar Square—the first time such permission had ever been granted.

The story of "The Christian" is well known to readers and playgoers—it concerns the efforts of one John Storm, become a Christian Socialist, to live as Christ would live, and his struggle to free himself from his love for Glory Quayle. He meets the usual end that comes to all reformers and prophets—is mobbed to death.

The cast is a notable one: Richard Dix plays the lead and opposite him is Mae Busch. These two players were selected by a process of elimination from a list which included a score or more of the best known film players of the day. Other players are Phyllis Haver, Gareth Hughes, Mahlon Hamilton, Joseph Dowling, Claude Gillingwater, Cyril Chadwick, Beryl Mercer, Harry Northrup, Robert Bolder, Milla Davenport, Alice Hesse and Aileen Pringle. Cedric Gibbon, Goldwyn art director, has outdone himself in some of the sets for the film and the photography is superlative. The story is a thrilling, emotional drama, realistically acted.

PICK WILD FLOWERS.

HUNTINGTON BEACH, March 19.—A wild flower jaunt was the objective of the Sunday motor trip of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Ewing and children and Miss Bertha Proctor. They started on the 'San Diego coast highway planning to return via the canyon on the inland route late in the evening.

MASS MEETING CALLED FOR CAMPAIGN

HUNTINGTON BEACH, March 19.—A school board without a woman, is like a child without a mother," read an announcement thrown on the screen of the local moving picture house last evening, calling all in the city to a mass meeting scheduled for this afternoon in the Woman's Club house to discuss the candidacy of Mrs. Blanche Gates for member of the school board to be elected Friday, March 30.

This mass meeting is the result of a smaller gathering held Saturday afternoon at the Club house. At this meeting the campaign organization was formed, with Mrs. May Jackson, 201 Thirteenth street as campaign manager and Mrs. J. H. Macklin as secretary and treasurer.

"A woman on the school board, day by day, will improve the school in every way," was the slogan adopted by Mrs. Gates' campaigners for their work. No particular speech was made, but there was a general round table discussion about matters pertaining to the school. The mothers present heartily endorsed the two measures in her platform already adopted—transportation for those children living at a distance, and an investigation of the school lunch problem. The legal aspects of the election was one measure to be brought before the women this afternoon.

Ireland's Shamrocks Be-deck Tables at Inn Dinner-Dance

Sparkling with candles, gay with shamrocks and vivid with charmingly gowned women, St. Ann's presented an attractive scene Saturday night when it offered setting for a St. Patrick's dinner dance with which Mr. and Mrs. J. Fred Parsons called together a group of friends.

Over the attractively arranged floral decorations, the guests chatted between dances while they enjoyed the delectable menu arranged by the maître d'hôtel, Mr. Schweiger. Nuts and confections were served in shamrock cups while clever little dinner favors emphasized the general "March Sixteenth" idea.

At adjacent tables were other smaller groups of diners including a merry gathering of the younger social set responding to invitations issued by Bruce and Kirk Caspar, sojourners at the Inn with their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. John Fry Caspar.

A third party comprised Los Angeles folk who motored to the Inn to enjoy one of the celebrated evening affairs, while small groups of diners remained for a few dances with the members of their individual parties.

Courageous Lassies Enjoy Ocean Dip

A delightful picnic was given to the members of the J. O. C. class of the Sunday school of the First Methodist church and their mothers at Laguna Beach Saturday, by their teacher, Mrs. McArthur. A luncheon of wieners, rolls, salads, pickles, home-made cake and lemonade was served. After a period of song and story, those not inclined to be timid, braved the waves and from the sound, found them cold, but enticing. All voted the picnic a grand success and Mrs. McArthur a royal hostess.

Those enjoying the day were: May Adams, Gladys, Finuf, Mary Nunn, Ruth Goodrich, Mary Dunston, Inez Hickman, Mary Heacock, Gladys Stoneman, Verna Ramsey, Thursa Van Nest, Eva Adams, Mrs. Goodrich, Mrs. Nunn, Mrs. Finuf and Mrs. Van Nest.

Parent-Teachers

Members of the Washington P. T. A. were today congratulating themselves upon the fact that the services of Senor Garza Leal, consul from Mexico at Los Angeles, had been secured for their program to be presented at the school Wednesday, March 21, at 2:45 p. m. Senor Leal has achieved quite a reputation as a polished and pleasing speaker and has appeared before many schools and organizations of this section of the state since his arrival at the consulate. His talks on Mexico, her people, traditions, history and customs are said to be unusually interesting.

Following the address of the afternoon (to which, by the way, cordial invitation is extended to all who are interested) the committee in charge will invite a coin shower for the benefit of the school rest room and kitchen. Many things are needed to add to the comfort and well-being of the teachers and among other articles which it is planned to purchase with the results of the shower will be cups and saucers.

Music Lovers Gather At St. Ann's for Artist Recital

As a foretaste of some of the musical events which Santa Anans are to enjoy with such frequency within the next few weeks, was the recital presented yesterday afternoon from 4 to 5:30 at St. Ann's Inn by Minnie O'Neill and Mrs. W. L. Porterfield of Long Beach.

Miss O'Neill, a talented pupil of Abby De Aviret and one who has devoted only the past five years to the more serious consideration of music, proved to be one of the most brilliant young pianists the city has entertained this year.

Mrs. Porterfield, the possessor of a rich contralto voice, while having deserted the professional field at the time of her marriage yet keeps up her musical work for her own pleasure, incidentally adding immeasurably to the pleasure of her friends.

In anticipation of the event Miss O'Neill had issued many invitations and as the hour of 4 neared, the lobby of the Inn where the recital was presented, filled with an appreciative group of musicians and interested friends.

Miss O'Neill proved to have a remarkable technique together with powers of interpretation which seemed amazing in one so young. For she is in her very early twenties and a sincere and somewhat shy young person considering the success she has attained in realms of music.

There was but one deviation from the printed program. That was the substitution of the "Eri King" (Schubert-Liszt) for a Chopin Polonaise. It was a wise choice for following the Brahms Rhapsody in G minor and a typical Chopin number, "Impromptu, F Sharp," the brilliancy of Eri King showed perfectly the pianist's versatility as well as mastery of technique.

One of her loveliest numbers was "Squidilla" by Albeniz, while the poetry and tenderness of "On Wings of Song" (Mendelssohn-Liszt) was further evidence of her ability to paint pictures with a strala of melody.

Such enthusiasm was manifested by her audience that Miss O'Neill returned to give an added number, Dett's "Juba Dance" which formed a brilliant conclusion to the program.

Mrs. Porterfield gave two groups. In her first appearance she sang the aria from "Mignon," "Connais tu le pays" proclaiming it with a charmingly intimate little talk giving a brief resume of the opera and its theme.

Her voice was smooth and vibrant and under perfect control. Its flexibility was shown in her second and final group, and when recalled for an added number, she gave the loveliest of all, and one most perfectly suited to the range and power of her voice, "The Old Road" by John Fritzsche-Scott.

Mrs. Porterfield was for a number of years, one of the leading soloists with Walter Damrosch, and for three years was contralto soloist at Dr. Henry Van Dyke's church.

The complete program as presented by the two artists was as follows:
"L'Assommoir, G Minor," Brahms; "Impromptu, F Sharp," Chopin; "Eri King, Miss O'Neill; "Connais tu le pays" (Aria Mignon), Ambrose Thomas, Mrs. Porterfield; "Squidilla," Albeniz; "Romance, D Flat," Etelius; "Concert Etude," MacDowell, Miss O'Neill.

"Lady Spring," Victor Harris; "The Spirit Song," Haydn; "I Passed By Your Window," May Brahe; "The Old Road," Jno Fritzsche-Scott, Mrs. Porterfield. "On Wings of Song," Mendelssohn-Liszt; "Polonaise," Liszt; Juba Dance, Dett, Miss O'Neill.

The recital was followed by a pleasant courtesy extended by Mr. Porterfield to a few local friends in honor of his wife and Miss O'Neill, when he was dinner host at the Inn.

At a table centered with an attractive arrangement of spirea was seated Mr. and Mrs. Porterfield, Miss O'Neill, Miss Elizabeth Newlands of Lorain, Ohio, Mrs. Eleanor Elliott, Mrs. Olive Lopez, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Gustlin, Mr. and Mrs. Abby De Aviret, and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Butler.

Fullerton Bride-elect Honored With Shower At Smart Luncheon

One of the delightful affairs of the St. Patrick season was the luncheon at St. Ann's Inn Saturday when Mrs. John Forster and Miss Lucana Forster entertained for Miss Emory Marshall of Fullerton, honoring her betrothal to Mr. Ralph King of La Habra.

Spring blossoms were used in lavish profusion to adorn the tables while gay little St. Patrick favors marked places for each guest. A surprise feature to the honoree was the shower of beautiful gifts which fell to her lot.

Following the luncheon, all enjoyed a theater party at the Yost where they saw Jackie Coogan in "Oliver Twist."

Miss Marshall is a niece of Mrs. Forster who asked to greet her a group of guests from different points in the vicinity. Included among them were Mrs. Claude Campbell, La Habra; Mrs. J. B. Pithado and Miss J. Salaberr, Los Angeles; Mrs. T. L. McFadden, Mrs. George Forster, Mrs. Donald Munger, the Misses Nina Vance, Ysadora McFadden, Doris Lee, Wanda Jackman, Beth Marshall, Fullerton; Miss Grace and Josie Daguerre, El Toro; Mrs. Frank Forster, Mrs. C. Echenique, Mrs. Tom Forster, Mrs. Arley Leck and Miss Ynez Forster of San Juan Capistrano.

Happy Day In Santiago Canyon

Spending Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shaw of Santiago Canyon, Mr. and Mrs. P. T. Isherwood of 521 East Seventeenth street, joined a merry party of Long Beach folk in a happy outing.

Mr. Shaw is forest ranger with a pretty cabin home in the canyon where the guests planned to have their dinner of all manner of picnic delicacies. The day began early when the Santa Anans joined the beach motorists in a breakfast of ham and eggs and kindred delicacies at Orange county park, from whence they motored on to the Shaw home to spend the remainder of the day.

In addition to Mr. and Mrs. Shaw and Mr. and Mrs. Isherwood, those present included Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Edwards and son Otto, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Whitaker, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Becker, William Becker, Miss Mary Becker and Mrs. Becker's mother, Mrs. Brown; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hunter all of Long Beach and Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Schroeder of Hollywood.

Household Economics

The pretty home of Mrs. D. F. Cook was the scene of the regular meeting of Ebell club's Third Household Economics section recently when Mrs. Cook and Mrs. W. B. Williams entertained.

"Bread-making" was the topic for the afternoon and Mrs. Williams read a very interesting article relating to the subject. At the tea hour refreshments were enjoyed by over a score of members and one guest, Mrs. Anderson.

Legion Auxiliary

"Sweets to the sweets" will be the Legion auxiliary slogan for the next few days as the members busy themselves in preparation for the candy sale which they will hold at the Legion minstrel show at the Yost theater, Thursday and Friday nights, March 22 and 23.

For nothing but home made candy will be sold and the auxiliary members have a sweet and sticky task laid out for them. Each member is asked to contribute as freely as possible and all candy is to be left at the armory hall Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Horace Snow, in charge of sacking the sweets, will have her helpers at the hall at 2 o'clock that afternoon and will receive the donations. Any one wishing further information may call Mrs. Dean Collier, chairman of the candy committee.

Sons of Veterans

Tonight at 8 o'clock, Sons of Veterans will meet for their regular session at G. A. R. hall, was the announcement made today by Commander Walter M. Somerby.

Bridge Dinner Is Second of Series Of Hospitable Events

Entertaining with the second of a series of pleasant affairs, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Rutan were dinner hosts recently at their home on North Main street, with a guest list of twenty-eight.

St. Patrick's day offered the general motif for decorations and appointments and guests found their places at small tables by means of appropriate place cards. Green candles centering the tables, illuminated the scene and shamrocks were much in evidence in nut cups and other table appointments.

Following the dinner, bridge was introduced and to Dr. and Mrs. J. I. Clark was awarded the prize for high score, while Mr. and Mrs. Max Smith were consoled with an appropriate gift.

Mr. and Mrs. Rutan plan to continue their entertaining after Lent with kindred pleasant affairs. They were dinner hosts over a week ago to a congenial group of friends when they instituted the pleasant series of events.

Ladies' Aid Society

When Mrs. D. A. Bear entertains the south-east section of the First Presbyterian Aid society tomorrow afternoon at her home, 1406 East First street, members are requested to come at 2 p. m., prepared to devote the afternoon to sewing and the discussion of important business matters.

Sharp Advance Noted In Many Industrial Issues
With Outlook Bright

NEW YORK, March 19.—Industrial stocks today continued their forward movement in style that augured well for indefinite continuance of the main upward trend. Although some of the advances, especially in the equipment group were quite sharp, speculation at no time seemed to be getting out of hand.

Evidently the process of discounting the business improvement through a series of upward movements with frequent reactions, each holding above the preceding one, has succeeded in preserving the internal position of the price structure in strong shape, for the action of the market actually suggests fewer technical faults than when the first aggressive phase of the bull swing was getting under way in February.

Another landmark, the marvelous transformation which took place in domestic business last year was furnished by General Motors' report for 1922 showing a net income of $51,456,000 against a deficit of $38,680,770 in 1921. If it could be argued that this represented water that has flown over the dam, the answer was readily available in the remarkable vitality displayed in an industry like copper since the start of the present year.

GRAIN PRICES DROP ON CHICAGO BOARD

(By United Press Leased Wire)
CHICAGO, March 19.—Grain prices were sharply lower at the close of the Chicago board of trade today.

May wheat led in the weakness which was induced by profit taking and a lack of constructive enthusiasm. Reports from the southwest indicated the damage from the blizzard was not as serious as at first believed. Export trade estimated at 750,000 bushels failed to affect the market. Broomhall estimated Argentina still had $5,000,000 bushels of wheat to ship compared with 51,000,000 last year.

Profit taking also featured the trade in corn and prices dipped despite a fair export inquiry. The expected foreign demands from farmers, unable to get their cattle to market failed to materialize. Argentine reported heavy receipts but the demand was light.

The trend of other grains was reflected in oats which lacked other features. World shipments were estimated at 25,525,000 bushels against 26,203,000 last week. Export demand was negligible. Provisions were quiet and fractionally lower. Offerings were disposed of to scattered buyers.

WOMAN WINS SUIT.
FREMONT, Neb., March 17.—Mrs. Elizabeth Sohl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Mecklin of this place, was awarded $12,500 by a Saunders county jury for alienation of her husband's affection by her father-in-law John Sohl, now residing in Napa, Calif. It is said to be the largest amount of heart balm ever awarded in Nebraska. The suit resulted after a visit of the elder Sohl to the son's farm in 1921 at which time Mrs. Sohl charges the father began to poison the mind of her husband against her and alleged that he stirred up trouble until the domestic split resulted.

BERRIES PLENTIFUL ON S. F. MARKETS

Receipts on Many Lines of Vegetables and Fruits
Reported Heavy

(By United Press Leased Wire)
SAN FRANCISCO, March 19.—Receipts of southern berries were heavier and prices ranged from $4 to $4.75 per crate. Quality varied considerably accounting for the wide range in prices.

Much heavier receipts of asparagus are expected this week if the warmer weather continues. Three hundred and ninety-one boxes were received today. Ordinary field run asparagus sold for 15 and 22 per pound; while number two grades brought 11 to 13 cents per pound. A few boxes of fancy graded, sold at 25 cents per pound.

Further improvement is seen in the potato market. Fancy repack- ed river Burbanks sold up to $1.25 per cwt; an advance of ten cents per cwt.

The local market on rhubarb is somewhat easier with prices on all grades ranging from $2.50 to $3.25 per box. Supplies are heavier.

Imperial valley lettuce is selling at $1.75 to $2 per crate, which is 25 cents lower on extreme top prices.

Trading in poultry was very quiet with no changes in prices reported.

Miss Amy Dyson, president of the school board, is a candidate for reelection. B. B. Brown, Mrs. Ira Patterson and Miss Sadie Dyson have been appointed to conduct the election.

Mr. Thomas moved his apiary from the Cleveland reserve in the mountains to the orange groves near Placencia.

Mrs. Cummings was in Seal Beach Wednesday calling on old friends and making arrangements to return to the beach soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Doolen of Long Beach have taken a cottage in the Submarine court.

Mr. and Mrs. Jackson and family of Bakersfield are located temporarily at the Landing.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Kennedy have moved to the "Shack" but retain the lease on the Submarine court and its management.

Mrs. Cline and baby, Eva Patricia, are home again.

The card party held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. May Tuesday evening was well attended and the usual interest manifested in the games. Mrs. Welch won the first prize for the ladies, and Mr. Post the men's trophy, while the consolation prize was awarded to Mr. Purkhart and proved to be an unexpectedly active rabbit whose antics were in response to the pressure of a small bulb.

TWO FLOATING AIRDROMES FOR NAVY

CAMDEN, N. J., March 16.—Two floating airdromes are now under construction for the United States, one at the New York shipbuilding yards here, the other at the Fore River shipyards.

Originally the two airplane carriers were to have been the battle cruisers Saratoga and Lexington. Modification of the naval program at the Arms Conference prevented this. Peace programs and their like, however, are not interfering with development of the art of aerial naval warfare.

Rather than waste the $7,000,000 worth of labor and material that had already gone into the construction of the ships, it was determined to convert them into airplane carriers, with super-equipment of every sort.

Each of the carriers is to be 850 feet long with a beam of 105 feet. The upper surface of each boat will be fashioned into a long flat landing platform for airplanes. The smokestacks will look into three stacks widened and flattened into one and will be crowded to the starboard side of the ship to allow room for the easy landing and taking off of the air fleet the ship will mother.

Storage facilities for airplanes and machine shops for their upkeep and repair shops will be below decks. When placed in commission, the two carriers will be combination hangars, machine shops and landing fields.

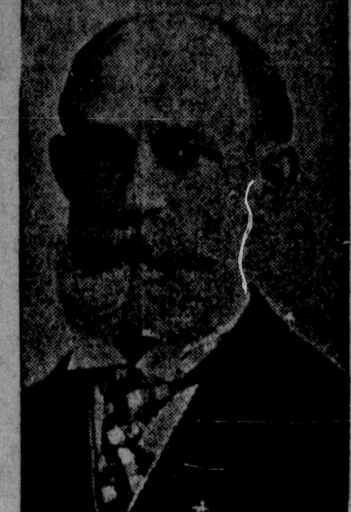

The speed they will be able to attain is intended to permit them to keep ahead of an enemy battleship and to dodge torpedoes fired from enemy destroyers and submarines. Their engines will be capable of developing 150,000 horse power through four electrically driven shafts. The carriers will be able to develop a speed of thirty-three knots an hour (about thirty-nine miles) despite the fact that each ship will weigh more than 33,000 tons.

The superiority of the ships will be increased by the completeness of the radio installation, the elevators for lifting aircraft to and from the decks, cranes for hoisting heavy reconnaissance planes and their maneuverability in a heavy sea.

The two carriers will be completed within two years.

IS THERE REALLY MUCH DIFFERENCE IN DENTISTRY?
That's a question many a person has asked when considering to have his sadly-neglected teeth put in a condition for SERVICE and LOOKS.
Fortunately the answer is easy if you distinguish between the big things on which dental life and efficiency depend and the little details which are less important individually, though taken all together they make considerable difference between high-class, well-constructed dentistry on the one hand and cheap dentistry on the other.
Dr. Atwell is a leader in the dental profession, his years of experience, superior quality of material and kind service to his patients has established for him a reputation which is bringing patients to him from every corner of Orange County.

HOSPITAL SITE SELECTED ON GRAND AVE.

The proposed new hospital of the Santa Ana Valley Hospital association will be situated at the southwest corner of Washington and Grand Avenues. It became definitely known today, following a meeting of the board of directors, at which it was decided to purchase the site.

The property consists of three and three-quarters acres and is being purchased from J. W. Law.

Mrs. Clara R. Cushman, attorney for the hospital association, said that prompt payment of pledges to the building fund would greatly facilitate closing of the site and hasten the time when building operations might begin.

The attorney stated that the association had pledged, totaling $401,500, which, with the Community hospital plant, made a gross total of $141,500.

Papers are now in escrow passing to the new organization the title to the Community hospital property. It is expected that the transfer will be completed within a week or two, when the new association will assume the management.

Try Musterole for sore throat, cold on the chest, rheumatism, lumbago, pleurisy, stiff neck, bronchitis, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pains and aches of the back and joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet—colds of all sorts. COMMUNITY NIGHT PLANNED BY GIRLS

HUNTINGTON BEACH, March 19.—Another Camp Fire project and another community night are the plans for the "free to all" program to be presented in the auditorium of the grammar school Friday evening, March 23.

"Happiness" is the title of the theatrical which the girls of the "Manaraha" Camp Fire, the group composed largely of girls of the upper eighth grade, will portray the lonely search of one of their members for the Utopia for which all humans long. And of course she will find it after a series of exciting adventures in the heart of the Manaraha group.

The leading part is to be played by the vivacious little Marian Gleeves who has already created a name for artistic ability upon the stage in the production of the Thanksgiving pageant. Other members of the cast are Bessie Mas-senhelmer, Irene McGuire, Kathryn Walker, Effie Howe, Pearl Dowdy, Adela Ross, Pauline Black, Virginia Ward, Bernell DuButz, and Zelma Brown.

Camp Fire wigwags will be a feature of the "social hour" to follow the program, where light refreshments will be served. A "free will" box will give all Camp Fire friends an opportunity to show their appreciation of the program.

FURNITURE FINISHER EXPERT JOINS FIRM

G. D. Pablon, formerly with John Wanamaker, New York, Marshall Field & Company, Chicago, and recently with Bullock's, Los Angeles, has accepted a position with Ida Chandler & Son, local furniture store.

Pablon is an expert furniture finisher, declared E. W. Bruce, manager of the Chandler upholstery and finishing shop, "and we are fortunate in having a man of his ability in our organization. In passing through Santa Ana recently he was so favorably impressed with the appearance of our city that he decided it was the ideal place for a home for his family."

HUNTINGTON BEACH PICNICS POPULAR

HUNTINGTON BEACH, March 19.—Picnic sars the spring sport at the beach now, especially among the "kiddies." The boys and girls who have been afforded art instruction in the grammar school under the supervision of Miss Winnie May Mackie, art supervisor, are planning a beach "get together" Saturday.

Miss Mackie has innovated the plan of "special art" students this year. Choosing those from each class whom she deemed specially gifted with the brush or pen, she has grouped them in small classes especially suited for such special work as the making of parchment lamps, pen and ink work, design carving. It is this group of young artists who will play together on the sands.

EX-POLICEMAN HELD ON SERIOUS CHARGE

Arrested in a North Main street rooming house on the complaint of the man's wife, who had followed the couple from Long Beach, Earl Porter, 33, said to be a former Long Beach police officer, and Nora Hubbard, 38, were held in the county jail here today facing arraignment on charges of contributing to the delinquency of Porter's small child.

Porter's wife learned that the couple were coming to Santa Ana she told police. She suspected that they had rented a cottage here, but a search revealed their asserted presence in the rooming house, where they were arrested.

The child was in the room with the couple, police declared.

Damask

Dainty Day Frocks

Different from anything you've ever worn - remarkable values at $4.95

SOMETHING no one ever thought of before—dainty day frocks made—actually—of damask. Think of it, damask with its soft smooth sheen and firm texture! Damask in dark-blue-and-white, red-and-white and buff-and-white checks, or with delicately patterned flower-sprays woven through it—white sprays on white, visible only because of their greater luster; white sprays shining through light blue or buff in alluring harmony.

So fresh and crisp and cheerful looking are they that any woman who comes down to breakfast in one of them can't start the day any way but "right". They are serviceable, too, as well as good-looking, easy to slip into and easy to launder.

We've just received these frocks, and it was a real "scoop" to get them. Nowhere else will you find anything even remotely like them. They are "Sunbeam" frocks; and "Sunbeams" are the originators of the damask frock idea. You can count on it that any dress bearing the "Sunbeam" label is absolutely first quality in style, material and workmanship.

At this price these new Damask frocks are remarkably low-priced. Come and choose yours while our assortments are complete. You're sure to want several for yourself. And we'll be pretty badly mistaken if a lot of women don't buy them as presents for their friends.

EDEN'S COUNTY SCHOOL UNIT BILL GIVEN BIG BOOST

Auditors, Assessors, Tax Collectors Approve Proposed Law

BIG ECONOMY SEEN

W. C. Jerome Predicts That $250,000 Annually Would Be Saved Here

Declaring his belief that Orange county could save $250,000 annually in operating costs of its schools by changing the methods of handling school affairs to conform to provisions of Senate Bill No. 30, introduced by State Senator Walter Eden, if the bill is adopted by the state legislature, W. C. Jerome, county auditor, today asserted that the bill is one which every taxpayer of the county should support.

Jerome recently returned from Sacramento, where he was in conference with legislators and committees on legislative matters. He is chairman of the legislative committee of the State Association of County Auditors. In Sacramento he met the legislative committees of the associations of county assessors and tax collectors, for consideration of various bills before the legislature. The three committees, after investigation, approved the Eden bill.

The bill provides a county board of education to govern all of the schools of a county, eliminating districts and district trustees. Organization of a county-wide school district and election of five members to the board of education is optional with the counties.

Change Up to Voters
The change must be made by vote of the residents of a county. The board of supervisors may call such an election and must call an election on petition signed by ten per cent of the registered voters.

It is provided that the board of education shall have power to appoint a board of teachers examiners, of which the county school superintendent shall be chairman, and four other members, of whom three shall be experienced teachers of not less than high school

FLOWER DEATH REAL TRAGEDY SAYS EXPERT

Student Who Opens Lectures In County Tells Blossoms' Secrets

BY ELEANOR ELLIOTT.

"The tragedy of the death of a flower is a never-to-be-forgotten one to him who has seen it by means of the record of a motion picture film," declared Arthur C. Pillsbury, of the Yosemite, who today was to open in Orange county a week of talks and film presentations of flowers and birds of the Yosemite.

Having made and projected films showing the opening and closing of flowers as well as their growth and development, Pillsbury is well qualified to offer information about their habits and the longer he studies his subject, the more firmly convinced is he that flowers and human beings are closely akin.

"Watching a flower twist and turn to attract the favor of the honey bee, seeing the gay young things dance merrily while their elders remain quiet on the stem, is to know them to be almost human in their actions and reactions," declared the eminent naturalist who is making such things his great life work.

Takes Alaska Trip.
After completing his studies at Stanford, where, by the way, he was a fellow student of D. R. Gardner, of Orange, Pillsbury, with a deep-seated love for the outdoors, took a long Alaskan trip. During that time he became interested in Alaskan scenery and took many pictures there. These proved so interesting generally that upon his return he went to the Yosemite. There he found so fruitful a field that he has remained there ever since save for the intervals during which he lectures.

His lectures, illustrated with the pictures, have been given all over the country. He has appeared before the National Geographic society and the National museum at Washington and also has worked extensively under the national park service.

In the Yosemite, during the season his lectures have been given nightly before 2,000 persons for four months of each year.

Strives to Save Flowers.
His whole life is devoted to the cause of saving the beautiful natural wild flowers of the country and his appearance before school pupils is to interest them that they will aid in the work of conservation.

"Among our fast disappearing wild flowers is the evening primrose which if not better protected will soon be wiped out in the Yosemite," declared the lecturer, who will conclude his Orange county appearance with his lectures here Friday afternoon and evening at the high school auditorium under the auspices of the City Parent-Teacher federation.

Dr. Pillsbury's schedule for the week was to open at Fullerton grammar school today at 1 p. m., while tonight he will appear at 6:30 at the Laguna Beach theater.

LISZT COMPOSITION WILL BE PLAYED BY GUSTLIN AT BENEFIT

Clarence Gustlin, chairman of the committee on arrangements, who will play Liszt's famous "Benediction de Dieu dans la Solitude," at the great benefit performance to be given tonight in the auditorium of the Santa Ana high school. The proceeds from this concert, which will be further enhanced by the appearance of other well known artists, will be used to defray the expenses of the musical convention to be held here in April.

HAMMER THEFTS TOTAL $2200 AT ORANGE

Once again authorities were today baffled by the activities of the "hammer burglar," the "man who leaves no clues," as they were investigating the reappearance of the latter Saturday night at Orange, where he cracked three safes and secured a $2,200 haul.

Working with his usual boldness and skill, the burglar entered three business establishments in the Orange business section, and, smashing safe combinations with a sledge, gathered up his loot and escaped.

The stores visited were:

The Daniels Market, North Glassell street.

The Dewey and Hessel Grocery store, East Chapman avenue.

T. L. Paris feed store, Olive street.

In each instance entrance was not difficult. At the market a window was pried open and entrance was gained with ease. At the grocery store, a door was pried open.

After Midnight.
The burglaries were thought to have been committed between midnight and dawn Saturday night.

A safe at the Daniels Market was wheeled from its position beneath a counter to a rear room, where the marauder worked unmolested. The combination was shattered with a hammer after gunny sacks had been placed over the safe to deaden sound. In rolling the safe from the front place, the burglar had to work under the glare of a bright electric light left burning all night.

Booty taken from the market included $328 in checks, $400 in bills of $10 denominations, $80 in silver and $540 in currency of various denominations. With the exception of the checks, the cracksman's haul will be easily negotiable. The market was covered by $1000 burglary insurance.

At Dewey and Hessel's, the procedure was the same, except that the safe was not moved. Liberty bonds worth $600, $80 in silver, and a number of valuable papers, negotiable, were the loot.

The Paris burglary was not discovered until this morning, when Paris opened the store. Entrance was gained through a side door, and the same was opened in the same manner.

Here, the "hammer burglar" secured $150 in savings stamps, $40 in silver, and a check for $6.95.

The burglaries were first noticed when proprietors opened the stores about 8 a. m. yesterday. City Marshal M. E. Jamieson, Sheriff Sam Jernigan and Deputy Sheriff Herman Zabel, finger print expert, were called. They declared that the intruder was the same that had been working in Orange county for nearly a year.

The most recent visit of the "hammer burglar" was his third exploit in Orange.

MAYOR'S SON PASSES
ANAHEIM, March 12.—Eldon W. Stark, son of Mayor William Stark, of this city, and a graduate of the College of Law, University of California, was among the eighty-seven law students who successfully passed the semi-annual examinations, according to the list of applicants which was made public by the state board of law examiners. Sam L. Collins of Fullerton and ten Santa Ana students were also successful in winning licenses to practice law, it was announced.

BABY GIRL ARRIVES
ORANGE, March 19.—Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Luke of Orange were made happy yesterday by the news that they were the grand-parents of an eight pound girl born to their daughter, Mrs. H. J. Nevin of Escondido, at the Pomona hospital. The mother is well known in Orange as Helen Luke, residing here with her parents before her marriage. She was a graduate nurse of Pomona college.

U. C. PLANS COURSES IN HEALTH SUBJECTS

Are you interested in child welfare?

Child hygiene in its relation to public health is to be made a special feature of the University of California summer session, it was learned here today.

Under the public health department, there will be a series of special lectures on "Fundamentals of Child Welfare Work," given by Dr. Herbert F. True, director of school health and development in the Los Angeles city schools.

Among other offerings which the summer session will extend to those interested in child welfare will be courses in health administration by Dr. John Y. Pomeroy, Los Angeles county health officer, and in the history and principles of public health nursing by Edith S. Bryan, assistant professor of public health nursing.

The University of California summer session will open this year June 30, continuing to August 11. Bulletins of the summer session will be sent free on request by applying to room 815, Junior Orpheum building, Los Angeles.

C. OF C. POSTPONES MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

Announcing postponement of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce membership campaign, which was to begin this month, until October in order not to conflict with the Greater Santa Ana club campaign, J. C. Metzgar, secretary of the Chamber, today issued a statement that the Chamber then would inaugurate a campaign having in view an increased membership and a budget fund of at least $35,000.

Out of this fund, $10,000 at least would be spent in advertising Santa Ana, he said.

Decision to put the membership campaign over until October was reached by the Chamber membership committee following a conference with Charles P. Bayer, manager of the organization department of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, who came here to offer such assistance as might be required, it was explained.

RECORD ATTENDANCE SEEN FOR MUSICAL CONVENTION BENEFIT SLATED TONIGHT

"Benediction de Dieu dans la Solitude," the striking composition of Franz Liszt which Clarence Gustlin will play at the great benefit performance to be given at the high school here tonight, was considered by Liszt and his intimates as being the composer's most beautiful piano work, according to Gustlin.

"I had the honor and the distinction of playing this great number on Liszt's own piano, at his old home in Weimar, when I was abroad," said Gustlin, discussing tonight's splendid program, "and I can assure you it gave me quite a thrill when I seated myself before that famous instrument. The spirit of Liszt seemed to pervade the very atmosphere."

Gustlin, in completing arrangements for the benefit performance, said he was convinced tonight's concert will prove to be one of the most enjoyable musical events staged here in many months. Indications were that a capacity "house" will greet the artists. The entire proceeds will be used to defray the expenses of the musical convention here in April.

Among those who will help lend enchantment to tonight's program are Madame Manuela V. Budrow, renowned Spanish concert singer, who, with Gustlin, will represent the Santa Ana Musical association; Mrs. H. M. Sammis, well known local artist, who will present vocal solos on behalf of the Santa Ana Ebells music section; Minna Mae Lewis; Miss Margaret Wickes; Miss Ruth Armstrong, and many others.

To Make Home Here.

Madame Budrow, who has just returned to the United States after an absence of two years abroad, will make her future home in Santa Ana. During her former stay here, Charles W. Cadman, famous composer, engaged her to sing selections from his opera, "Shanewis," when it was produced in Los Angeles for the first time after the performance of the opera at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York.

Madame Budrow, who delighted a great audience at the First Presbyterian church here recently, has written the music for "Ramona," which will be produced in Los Angeles and Pasadena in the near future. Tslanina, the Indian contralto, will take the stellar role in that production. Madame Budrow has a rare voice, of bell-like quality and her numbers tonight will be particularly pleasing.

To Sing Bizet Number.

She will sing "The Pearl Fishers," by Bizet, and her own popular "Spanish Serenade." Miss Ruth Armstrong, her accompanist at the Presbyterian church concert here, will serve in the same capacity tonight.

Mrs. Sammis, representing the Ebells club, is well and favorably known throughout Orange county for her exceptionally fine vocal numbers. She will probably sing three short numbers at tonight's concert.

Mrs. Sammis will contribute two numbers, Schindler's "Eli, Eli," famous Jewish traditional song based upon the agonized cry of the Savior on the cross, and "A Birthday," by Cowen.

In addition, the Santa Ana high school orchestra, one of the best organizations of the kind in the county, will contribute an overture, "The Black Queen," by Fred White; Orange County Choral union artists will sing "O, Glad some Light," from the "Golden Legend," and high schools of Santa Ana, Fullerton, Huntington Beach and other cities will present diversified numbers.

To Give Musical Reading.
Other features include a musical reading by Minna Mae Lewis, of the Santa Ana high school dramatic department, who will give Clara Wilde's "The Selfish Giant," Mrs. McBride, Fullerton Ebells club, soprano solo; the Rotary Quartette, the Thomas Askin choir and various other numbers.

Radio supplies at Hawley's.

MASONS READY FOR SCHOOLS BOOST MEET

Final arrangements today were being completed here for the public meeting to be held at the Masonic temple here Thursday at 8 p. m., when emphasis will be given to school matters.

In accordance with the proclamation of W. A. Sherman, grand master of the Masons, Santa Ana Masons have arranged to co-operate in the movement to observe the week of March 19-24 as public school week among the Masonic lodges," said Dr. L. L. Whitson, chairman of the program committee.

"With this in view, we have invited J. A. Cranston, city superintendent of schools, S. C. Hartrast of Fullerton and other speakers to address the gathering at the temple Thursday. All good citizens are agreed that the well-being of the country, and even its perpetuity, will depend upon the product of the schools."

Others who will speak include Mrs. Earl L. Morris, who will discuss "The Parent-Teacher Organization's Viewpoint." Music will be furnished by the Santa Ana high school orchestra and the Girls' Glee club.

CLEAR THEFT MYSTERY AS FIVE LADS NABBED

Stolen property valued at several hundred dollars was recovered, and a solution of several mystery robberies was believed to have been found, in the arrest at Anaheim, of five Mexican boys, it was learned today.

The property was recovered at the homes of the boys, police there said, and was taken to police headquarters, where a half dozen supposed victims called to identify it.

Watches, rings and other jewelry, which the boys disposed of in return for money, were missing, and the money obtained for them had been spent, it was said.

The boys, who are said to have confessed, were being held for juvenile court.

GRIMM WORKS FOR TILT WITH MASON

Huntington Beach Boy Has Chance to Be Regular Delhi Performer

With a golden opportunity to get himself in solid as a performer well up on the "twice-a-month" cards at Boyd Ellis's Delhi arena, Joe Grimm, the Huntington Beach welterweight, today stepped through several fast rounds with his sparring partners at his seaside training camp and wound up the day's work with a long session on the road.

Grimm will tackle "Pinky" Mason, the highly-touted boy from Seattle who has been pushing them over with regularity around his home town and since then at Oakland and San Francisco, in the main event at Delhi Wednesday night.

Grimm Looks Good. The one time that local bugs saw Grimm in action was when he had been in training but two days and when he had subbed for Jack Martin against Henry Gatten on one day's notice. Despite the fact that he gave away considerable weight he succeeded in holding the hard-scooped Santa Ana boxer to an even-tempered verdict.

Mason arrived in Los Angeles the other day and after signing for the Delhi fray immediately began a vigorous campaign to get rid of "train legs" so that he will be in the best of condition to add to his prestige in these parts. Mason is scheduled to battle at Vernon and Hollywood in a short time.

Jack Dunn, the curly-headed Huntington Beach oil driller, showed plenty of class when he appeared at Ellis' place of business last season. In Young Terry he will meet a boy who has just about everything but a knockout wallop.

If Dunn catches on and outspends Terry there will be no question as to his ability. They will mingle in the semi-windup.

Young Vasquez will tackle a tough one in George Gilmore, the Los Angeles 145-pounder, who has a long k. o. list on his string of victims. Vasquez and Gilmore clash in the feature preliminary.

Beside a good curtain raiser, which Ellis is not in a position to yet announce, there will be two other "preludes." Battling Dwyer will be around for a tangy with Joe Kelly, brother of Tom Kelly, the middleweight. Toby Montoya of Placentia will hook up with Young Galinda, Los Angeles.

BIG LEAGUE CLUBS SPEED UP TRAINING

NEW YORK, March 19.—Both major leagues will be under way this time next month. Much will depend on how they start. Three teams in each league look so formidable that faltering at first may cause them to be a step behind next October.

New York, Cincinnati and Pittsburgh look like the main rivals in the National league race. The Cubs next come through as a dark horse and they might even beat out the Cards.

John McGraw's known ability to keep his New York Giants from getting puffed under the hat band over their success will prevent the National league champions suffering from the effects of two pennant winnings. The Giants are a great "money" club and although they may not be stronger than they were last year they are not weaker.

Pat Moran has built up a most impressive team in the Cincinnati Reds and if he has any luck in getting away fast he will have a most prominent contender.

"Rube" Benton is allowed to pitch and he is back in the form he is said to be the Giants can't lose any day of the season.

Every one is figuring Ty Cobb to furnish all the fireworks in the American league with the Detroit Tigers and he probably will do it. The St. Louis Browns have to be figured, although with Sleser out of shape, they will lose a lot.

The White Sox kick up some dust also and Ty Speaker is "building."

With the apparent return of Babe Ruth to reason, the Yankees ought to be much stronger. They have the pitching and the hitting and even if the fielding is a little off, they have a great ball club.

A new automobile costs you say $1000. The first trip out it depreciates 20%—$200 or more, leaving the value $750 to $800. Your old car is really worth about $500 and you are offered $250 to $300—another $500 to $250 loss making a total of at least $400. Now HALF of that amount spent on your old car will thoroughly overhaul and make it worth around $700; it will have no depreciation and will render service that you would not require of a new car, and you save more than you spend.

TRI-COUNTY MEET AT HUNTINGTON BEACH EXPECTED TO DRAW 100 STARS SATURDAY

Fresh from its sensational victory over the crack Huntington Beach squad here last Friday, Coach Ray Anderson's Santa Ana high school track and field athletes today resumed practice for the two big meets which will virtually complete their 1923 season.

Anderson, highly encouraged by its great showing against the seaside team, will enter a full squad in the Tri-County meet which will be held at Huntington Beach next Saturday and which will attract approximately 100 star athletes from Orange, San Bernardino and Riverside counties.

Huntington Beach merchants have dug down in their jeans and hung up several beautiful trophies which will go to the winning schools. Splendid medals also will go to the individual first, second and third place winners.

Critics Favor H. B. Despite the sensational work of the Santa Ana team last week, most of the critics favor either Huntington Beach or San Bernardino to cop the honors at the Tri-County affair.

Coach Ray Walker of the oil city team will have his star all-around performer, Ross Nichols, back in the fold and Nichols is good for points in any high school meet in the country. He is one of the most versatile track men ever produced in Orange county. Nichols competed only in the high jump against Santa Ana because of an injury which he sustained at San Diego, two weeks before.

San Bernardino showed its class last week by trimming the Long Beach high school team 88 to 25.

The railroad city team is very evenly balanced and has enough star performers to be dangerous in any kind of a meet.

Allie Is Entered. Local fans also will get a chance to see the sensational Fullerton sprinter, Cliff Allie, in action. Fullerton will enter a big squad and Allie is generally favored to cop both the 100 and the 220 by virtue of the 10 15 and the 23 seconds time he has reeled off in competition this season.

Santa Ana should be able to get a slice of points in the distances for Bob Vawter looked unbeatable in the Huntington Beach meet. Despite the fact that it was his first real race his year the lengthy Poly runner stepped off the mile in 4:54 and the never was pressed. He looked capable of bettering that time ten seconds.

Arnold Strosheim, the "dark horse" of the local season, has been improving with very rapid pace and when he caught Mike Nash and beat him to the tape in the fur-long last Friday he loomed as a possible first place man both in the Tri-County and the Orange county meets. The Orange county affair will be held at Anaheim March 31.

Otto Gardner has an excellent chance to annex some Santa Ana digits in the low hurdles. Gardner has splendid form in clearing the barriers and he isn't the slowest man in the world by a long ways. It should be a great race between he and Nichols for first honors unless some of the Riverside and San Bernardino county speeders are able to cut into the one-two order.

Still shaking as a result of the scare given them in their first league fracas of the Orange league season by the Garden Grove nine, members of the Santa Ana high school baseball team today reported for practice with the knowledge that Coach Orion Neff intended to put them through some long and tough workouts this week in preparation for the next scheduled game with Huntington Beach at the seaside city next Friday afternoon.

Poly only won from Garden Grove when Earl Jabs rapped a torrid home run in the eighth inning. At that time the score was tied and it was rapidly getting dark. A couple more innings and the game might have been called on account of darkness.

Ted Coffman, star catcher, will probably be back with his team this week after a siege with the flu. Brown, the little leftfielder, caught in Coffman's absence at the Groves and while he did well he was greatly missed in the outfield and Coffman was missed behind the bat.

Santa Ana will play a practice game probably tomorrow night. Spencer, Jabs and Howe are expected to get a whirl at the pitcher's job in that melee. "Barney" Le Bard, the locals' first string hurler who fanned twenty Garden Grove swatsmiths, will be saved for the Huntington Beach fracas.

SIKI PROTESTS ON DECISION LAUGHED AT BY IRISH FANS

DUBLIN, March 19.—"Ireland doesn't care how Mike McTigue won the world's light heavyweight championship from Battling Siki. He won and that makes him champion," was the general comment around Dublin when it was suggested that the referee might have made a mistake.

None of McTigue's friends, of course, admitted that he had won by less than a mile and the protests of Siki and his party were laughed down as being the walls of bad losers.

Jack Smith, the referee, said he would give the decision to McTigue if he had a second thought on it. He pointed out that it was a boxing match and that while Siki did most of the leading, McTigue was scoring all the points with superior boxing, blocking and jabbing.

THE HONOR OF M. LUTARD

BY E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM
Copyright, 1922, by E. Phillips Oppenheim
Arrgt. NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Vendetta begins between MICHAEL SAYERS, noted criminal, and SIR NORMAN GREYES, "once of Scotland Yard, when Sayers' beautiful housemaid, JANET, saves him from Sir Norman by shooting dead the officer sent to arrest him. Janet becomes Sayers' wife and accomplice. In the Leeds bank robbery, Michael (known to Greyes as "Stanfield"), barely escapes and has to flee the country.

Sayers plots with another well-known criminal, Paul Gont, to ruin the political leader, Philippe Lutarde. Janet calls on Lutarde at night with a letter asking him to communicate with a friend who has important information. Lutarde promises to follow Janet, then finds that the letter brought by her has disappeared.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY
Sir Norman continues. "In sense I am a man," she replied, taking the chair to which he pointed and leaning a little over his desk. "It is my husband who should have come. He would have waited upon you and brought the letter and message to which this note refers, but he was attacked last night by an old complaint of the river-side and he is absolutely unable to move. He asked me to hasten to you, and to beg that under the circumstances you would do him the honor to come to the hotel. He is ashamed to have to ask you, but the doctor who is with him now absolutely forbids him to stand up. I have here his certificate."

"I will come without delay, madame," Lutarde promised, waving away the half-sheet of notepaper which she had tendered. "At which hotel do you stay?" "The Hotel Napoleon, in the Rue Tranchard," she replied. The Minister started. I too received a shock for the district was the most notorious in Paris.

"My dear madame," he protested, "the neighborhood of the Rue Tranchard is certainly not a fit place for you and—"

"That is what distressed my husband so much in having to ask you to go to him," she interrupted. "It was the particular desire of the person on whose behalf he has come, that his presence in Paris should not be known, and my husband deliberately chose this hotel, where he sometimes stayed when engaged on secret-service work during the war. He desired me to say that if you preferred not to risk being seen in such a locality, he would endeavor to procure an ambulance car from the hospital and come here."

"Such a thing would be unheard of," Lutarde protested. "I will go, with you, of course."

"Well," my temporary chief answered, looking across at me. "The moment has arrived," I answered.

"You suggest that the woman is an impostor?" he exclaimed. "She is the wife of a well-known English criminal," I declared. "Her story was plausible but very improbable. What about the letter that she brought?"

Monsieur Lutarde searched his table. I watched him grimly. "You will not find it," I told him. "I saw her pick it up as she passed."

"What shall we do?" he asked. "Keep her waiting for a few minutes and then go to the address she gave you, now where else?" he decided. "I am going to telephone Ennison, and I shall be there before you. If we see this thing through, we may find out who is at the bottom of it. I will see that you run no risk."

A brief drive together after the telephone call, to whom I had telephoned, picked up in his car. We made one more brief call, and reached the hotel as the taxi cab containing Monsieur Lutarde and his companion was turned into the other end of the long glass windows of her bureau, eyed me a little suspiciously as we entered. I engaged her in confidential conversation, however, respecting a suite, and she did not even notice the three or four men who had followed us at intervals into the hotel and who disappeared in various directions. Presently I heard the taxi stop. I made an excuse, and we hurried into the hall. Janet, followed by Monsieur Lutarde, who although he had taken off his hat, held it in front of his face, crossed the floor swiftly toward the lift. Madame passed into the lift, and I followed her. I returned to the bureau. I allowed myself to show much interest.

"But surely, madame," I whispered, "that was Monsieur Lutarde, a great statesman, who entered with the lady?"

Madame smiled at us knowingly. "In effect it is he," she admitted. "Madame is the wife of an old client, an American gentleman who left this evening for London."

"A love-affair?" I queried under my breath. Madame shrugged her shoulders. Her glance was eloquent and answered the query.

"What can one do?" she murmured. "Only I hope that Monsieur will never discover. He has a violent temper. Ah! The merciful heavens! It is Monsieur himself who returns! Now there has tragedy arrived!"

Into the hotel with his coat-tails flying behind him, came a man whom at first I did not recognize. I myself had stepped back out of sight, and I watched the scene. The newcomer acted his part well. My key, madame, he shouted, banging his fist against the counter.

Madame pretended to search for it. She too had been shocked in her part. So had the guests, who, with a little crowd of reporters, came closing around.

"But I have it not, monsieur," the woman faltered. "Madame herself—"

The newcomer strode toward the lift, which I imagine was willfully delayed. He shook the gates and pressed the bell furiously. Madame leaned over the counter.

"But what alas monsieur?" she demanded. "What ails me?" he replied at the top of his voice, speaking now in broken French, now in English with an American accent. "I tell you that not three minutes ago I saw my wife enter this hotel with a man who was my enemy."

He turned and ran for the stairs, followed by a little crowd among whom I easily escaped detection. We reached the second floor. The man who now, to my amazement, I realized must be Stanfield, was banging at the panels of a closed door, and shouting.

"It is locked!" he cried. "I knew it! Locked! Open, Suzanne! I know your key!"

The door opened. A few of us were almost pushed in. Janet, with her face buried in her hands, turned away. Monsieur Lutarde, not wholly at his ease, stood there with folded arms.

"Who are you, sir, and what are you doing here?" Stanfield demanded fiercely. "I am here at your wife's bidding to receive a message which she assures me that her husband has brought from London," Lutarde replied.

"It is a lie!" Stanfield shouted. "I know her husband, and I know nothing of you. It is years since my wife was in London. These are subterfuges. Tell the truth, woman!"

Janet threw herself on the couch and hid her face. "He is your lover?" Stanfield insisted.

"I could not help it," Janet sobbed. "You have been so cruel lately. Why did you come back?"

There was a little murmur among the curious crowd in the background. A thin, dark man with eyeglasses, obviously a journalist, was on the point of stealing away. The time had come for action. I disentangled myself from the group. Stanfield looked into the muzzle of my automatic.

"Hands up, Stanfield!" I ordered. "Close in behind, Ennison. Pass the word down to bolt the doors of the hotel."

I had once come to the conclusion that no matter how cruel our duel might continue, I should never see a sign of feeling in my enemy's face. Through his wonderful disguise, however, the real man at this moment leaped out. He stood staring at me, viciously with the half-fascinated amazement of one who looks upon a new thing in life. Janet was crouching back upon the couch, shrinking away from me as far as possible, her fingers tearing at pieces some shred of antimacassar. Suddenly she sprang like a cat between her husband and me. He saw his chance and leaped for the door. The crowd of stupefied people opened as though by magic to let him pass. I lowered my pistol and shouted a warning at the top of my voice. There was the sound of a shot below, and the tramping of many feet. A gray-haired, well-dressed man with red ribbon in his buttonhole, who I afterward discovered to be the editor of a leading journal, pushed his way through.

"Monsieur," he said to me, "is there any answer to this riddle?"

"You will find it below," I answered shortly. "There has been a plot to compromise the personal honor of Monsieur Lutard, and which you have seen frustrated. The injured husband is an English criminal. His wife—I hesitated—his accomplice. Monsieur Lutarde has never seen either of these persons in his life."

A PUZZLE A DAY

There is a certain number which, multiplied by 3, gives a total made up of the same figure repeated three times. Multiplied by 6, it gives a total composed of another figure three times repeated. The same thing will occur if the number is multiplied by 9, 12, 15, 18, 21, 24 or 27. What is the number?

Yesterday's answer: VICAR

STAY WITH THE COUNTY FAIR

There ought to be unmistakable backing given immediately to the Orange county farm bureau in the proposal that it manage the county fair to be held next fall.

True, the farm bureau has not yet officially undertaken the work of putting on the fair. It probably will accept the responsibility at a meeting of the directors of the bureau to be held Wednesday of this week.

The farm bureau, better than any other organization, can bring to bear upon the far project the united efforts of all parts of the county. This organization represents hundreds of agriculturists and horticulturists. It is the leader in agricultural and horticultural thought and achievement. Through its centers, a sentiment for better products and better methods has been aroused, and the county fair is essentially a demonstration of better products and better methods of doing things.

The county fair to be a success must have substantial backing and interest throughout the county. The farm bureau is able to command both the backing and the interest that is needed, and without a doubt it can produce a wonderful fair.

It behooves every community of the county to get solidly behind the farm bureau in this project. Whatever problems may be faced, there should be no hesitancy in accepting the leadership of the farm bureau and uniting with it in moving forward to making the fair everything that it ought to be.

ANOTHER NAPOLEON?

A "distinguished European publicist" is quoted by Theodore H. Price as having told him, a few weeks ago, that the Poincare government was destined to fall as soon as the French people realized the invasion of the Ruhr was costing much and producing nothing. Then, he said, "some Napoleon of the twentieth century" would arise to lead the French in an attempt to subjugate and annex Germany.

It sounded fantastic, as the speaker admitted. Yet Mr. Price finds, in recent developments, much to support this view. The French so far are spending money like water in their German adventure, and so far have no assurance of getting enough out of it to pay the cost of occupation, not to mention the reparation that they went after. And all the time the troops are advancing farther and farther into Germany, while murmurs of political discontent at home are growing louder.

There is no question that the French are doing their best to drive a wedge between North and South Germany. They want to isolate Prussia and encourage Bavaria's desire for separation. There is little doubt that most Frenchmen would like to go farther and annex a large part of Germany, if not all of it, and govern it as a subject province. The French do not seem particularly in love with republicanism except, like the ancient Romans, for themselves.

It may be that conditions are ripening for a new Napoleon. If so, there is big trouble brewing. He would find ready to his hand the finest army in the world.

DEBT-PAYING NATIONS

Now comes the Finnish debt. It is to be the next debt settlement negotiated by the refunding commission.

Most Americans have never heard of a loan to Finland. Millions of Americans, indeed, may not realize that Finland is now an independent nation.

The loan in this case doesn't amount to much. It is only $9,000,000. It is worth knowing, however, that Finland is not only capable of contracting debts but capable of paying them. Finland insists on paying. The money was borrowed not for warfare but for supplies of food, clothing and medicine at a time when the little republic was in dire straits. Now the country is on its feet and going strong.

Next in order is Czechoslovakia, another of the republics set up by the Versailles treaty. The vigor shown by some of these small, new nations and their self-respecting desire to fulfill all their obligations show that Europe is not hopeless, by any means. These national war babies are setting a good example to their big neighbors.

THE FAST THAT FAILED

A minister holding revival meetings in Jamestown, Ky., fasted for a week, in the belief that thus he might "be heard on high." The lack of food weakened him so that finally he could not stand on his feet and had to preach sitting down. He ended the revival without obtaining a single convert.

Those who have read the life of Gautama Buddha, the great teacher of India, may recall a somewhat similar experience of his. He fasted to acquire religious enlightenment, but could not make the progress he desired. Finally, one day, after he had fainted from hunger, he rose up and took food before the prescribed period of abstinence was over, and thereafter fasted no more. He had found, he explained, that hunger, which weakened the body, also weakened the spirit, whereas strength was needed for clear thought and spiritual growth.

So the "inventor of the porterhouse steak" is dead again. One of these days there'll be a steak monument set up on the site of every old hotel in the country that was ever run by anybody named Porter.

THE MILK DRINKERS

Americans are becoming a nation of milk drinkers. Consumption of this nourishing fluid has increased 17 per cent in ten years. This is good, as indicating a better understanding of the food value of milk and better methods for getting it to the consumer. There are, however, certain variations in the amount consumed in different localities which point to the need of further pushing of the gospel of good milk.

Big cities have a higher per capita rate of milk consumption than smaller ones, until the towns of 5,000 or less population are reached. People in these places are the greatest users of milk in the country. Evidently the intermediate towns have something to learn.

The per capita consumption is smallest in the southeastern states, where the preservation of milk is most of a problem. It is small also where there is a large proportion of negroes.

Another ten years will see a change in the situation. The places using an ample supply of milk will continue, but the others which now fall short will raise their average; for education is progressing, climatic conditions are being overcome and methods of distribution are improving. This all points to a day when health averages will be so much higher and sickness and death averages so much lower that the old man with a scythe will be out looking for a different job.

Sentiment and Sense

San Diego Union.

There isn't any better illustration of what a combination of sentiment and sound common sense the American mind actually is than the present gigantic and apparently successful project for the 4,000-mile Old Spanish Trail highway system. It's a sentimental project because it seeks to commemorate the exploration and gallant adventuring of the Spanish discoverers who first traveled the length and breadth of our southland. It's a project of sound common sense, because it offers a highway of great military importance along our southern borders and an all-year motor road for travel between the Atlantic and Pacific coasts of the United States.

The sentimental aspect of the project is picturesque, calling to mind the names of Ponce de Leon, Cortes, Pineda, Cabeza de Vaca and Coronado. It is vivid with the childlike dreams of those older times—the fountain of youth, Eldorado and the cities of gold that Coronado hoped a might discover. It is touched with heroic memories of adventure and hardships, lost expeditions and gallant explorers who never returned.

The trail begins at St. Augustine, Florida, where the first European settlement upon American soil left old ruins that endure today. It ends in San Diego, California, where the pious Padre Serra established the first of our famous missions and began the only Spanish colony in the United States that retained its character up to within the memory of living men.

In its practical aspect the Old Spanish Trail highway has been highly commended by the war department, and its completion has enlisted the serious interest of the entire south and southwest. Millions of dollars are being expended to give reality to this idea, and success seems assured. Obstacles of all sorts have been met—particularly in parts of the south where the highway building has been backward in the past—and for the most part these obstacles have been overcome.

The sixth annual convention of the Old Spanish Trail association will be held in New Orleans next week, and at that meeting several other highway associations will be represented to offer co-operation in completing links in the long road and cut-offs leading to it from other highways. In this connection, it may be interesting to note the following paragraphs, published by the association and summing up the present status of this dream of sentiment and common sense:

"Lest it be thought that the Old Spanish Trail still is only a dream, it should be said that thousands of motor tourists already are 'picking up' the trail on their way across the country every year. . . . Many are finding their way across through a country that varies with color and historic interest with every mile. Indeed, even as there is no highway in America with so much mileage as the Old Spanish Trail, so too there is none other with so much engaging romance, beautiful legend and glamorous history of an empire in the making, as this route which begins where the oldest remains of America's beginnings stand, and ends in a city of progress in another land of sunshine by the western sea."

Simplicity Not In Fashion

Sacramento Bee.

Some notable things happen, as commonly reported in the newspapers.

Few persons are given anything, but many are "made the recipients" of gifts.

Some say "yes" or "no," but the majority "respond in the affirmative," or "in the negative," as the case may be.

Many does anyone employed leave his job, but often somebody "severs his connection" with his employers. Or, if discharged, he is "no longer connected with his former position."

When a fire occurs—particularly if on "Main Street"—it usually is the "fire department" that turns out; not the firemen merely.

Seldom does a person get anything; almost always it is "secured."

Few die; most people more elegantly "pass away," or "enter the ranks of the departed," or "their earthly career is brought to a close."

Occasionally one who "goes to the beyond" leaves a body, but usually the "mortician" in his "parlor" deals only with "remains" when the "last sad rites" are performed, prior to the "interment." Burials have gone completely out of fashion.

In these days no politician runs for office, however willing to "accept the nomination" for a place.

Nor does anyone look for work, although perhaps eager to "accept a position."

Women and girls almost never advertise for a job, but "situations" commonly are "desired" by "refined" and other "ladies."

In such ways an advanced and progressive English puts the simple style of the Bible and Shakespeare to the blush.

How "common" of the bard of Avon, for instance, to have Hamlet use such words as these:

"To be or not to be; that is the question."

How much more lofty to have had the melancholy Dane say something like this:

"I am in one hand, to suffer this existence to prolong itself indefinitely; or, upon the other, to sever all connection with the material phenomena we call life; that is the portentous and inescapable interrogation to be taken under profound consideration and given weighty deliberation."

Withholding Millions

Sacramento Bee.

The chief need of the California treasury just now is for the Southern Pacific and Santa Fe Railroads to pay the $5,000,000 they owe the state under the tax increase imposed by the King bill, passed two years ago.

The roads stubbornly fought the passage of the measure, and after it became a law they obtained an injunction against collection of the difference between the old rates and the new. The case is still pending in a federal court.

But, whichever way it is decided, there appears to be a practical certainty of appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States.

Suggestions have been made of late that the railroad companies be invited to pay the state's claims, without further delay; also that the court's procedure in the matter be expedited.

But none of these suggestions seem likely to bear much fruit.

Neither railroad companies nor the courts usually take kindly to such invitations.

Yet railroad managers profitably may consider whether, in the long run, it is not better business to pay taxes that are equitably and fairly levied, than to obstruct collection by resorting to the law's delays.

A Boom in Architecture

The building boom now in progress in this country is providing the room and facilities needed for living, working and having a good time. But it is doing more than that. Along with the increase in indoor space and conveniences there is a notable increase in architectural beauty.

There is a veritable boom in architecture. Never has the architect had such an opportunity as he has today. Millions of people are spending billions of money on homes, offices, factories, banks, churches, libraries, city halls and other public buildings. They are not content with mere walls and roof. They want buildings that will be good-looking as well as useful and durable. And the results speak for themselves.

Ugly buildings are still going up, sad to say. But it can be said no longer that the beautiful building is the exception. There has been a wonderful development in house architecture, so that American homes are coming to be the finest in the world. Business buildings, once mere rectangular boxes full of windows, are taking on grace and dignity. Churches and public structures of massive proportions are coming to be worthy and noble monuments of modern civilization.

One of these years we may wake up and find our cities really beautiful. Certainly we shall if people get into the habit of considering good taste just as essential as anything else when they are building.

Beautiful buildings need not cost any more than ugly ones. Beauty is more a matter of taking thought than spending money. And yet beauty, in a city, is always profitable. Paris found that out long ago; so did Venice.

A SHRINE

No sanctuary can compare
With an orchard that I know,
When April slips into its aisles
And swinging censers blow—

When, 'neath its wondrous traceries,
The choristers that sing
Are robins, at their matins or
Their vespers, in the Spring.

A deep sky stains its windows blue,
And the nun-like breezes pass,
Embroidering bright petals on
Its altar-cloth—the grass.

No guide is needed but the heart,
For every passer there
May pause and see its loveliness
And offer up a prayer.

Each one can say his vespers well
On that old orchard close,
When the Sun sends dying blessings down
Its deep aisles, as he goes—

And through those aisles an acolyte
Comes stealing from afar—
It is the Dusk, and in the East
He lights the Evening Star!

Time to Smile

NO KICK COMING.

"Young man," said old Munnibagg, "you are apparently making a dismal failure at supporting my daughter. I have supplied just about as much money for her during the first year of her marriage as I had ever supplied any previous year. The only thing you have done, I find, is to keep her in gloves."

"Well, did I ever ask you for anything but her hand?"

WHY HER COMPLEXION.

The man was something of a bore anyway, so "selling" him was not such a regrettable discourtesy as it might have been under other circumstances.

He had asked:

"How does it come that, with your parents and all your brothers and sisters blondes, you yourself are such a decided brunette?"

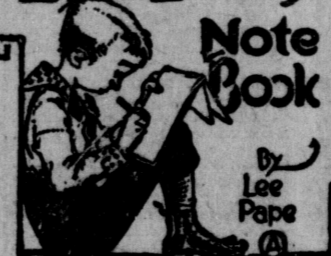

"Well, you see," she said confidentially, "I was born when our folks lived in a flat where babies were not allowed, so they had to keep me dark."

IN THE LONG AGO

From the Register Files.

MARCH 19, 1909.

A daylight burglar stole articles from the residences of Mrs. Claus Seba and Mrs. Henry Hockmeyer north of Tustin, yesterday.

Mr. Grubb Answers Mr. Ballard

Santa Ana, March 19,
Editor of the Register:

I have read with some interest, more amusement—and, I must confess, with some indignation—the article in the Register Forum by Mr. L. M. Ballard, in answer to the article that also appeared in the Forum some time ago by Mr. Newby, on the subject of the City Charter. If I did not thoroughly understand and appreciate the policy of the Register in the matter of giving everybody a hearing on public questions, I would be inclined to criticize you for publishing Mr. Ballard's communication, because of its misleading character. Not only are many of his premises false, but most of his conclusions are illogical. He says that Mr. Newby "don't know what he is talking about," and without meaning to be discourteous I am compelled to retort that Mr. Ballard should bear in mind the admonition, that "people who live in glass houses should not throw stones."

For instance, Mr. Ballard says: "With our charter as formed we would have a City Assessor and Tax Collector which would cost the tax payers about $12,000, including the salary of the City Manager; and now, with the taxes collected by the county, I am informed it costs the city something like $400 annually."

As you know, Mr. Editor, the charter does NOT provide that the city SHALL have a tax collector and an assessor; it only provides that the city MAY have those officers. And in this respect the charter is not different at all from the present law. Under the present law, the council could at any time create and fill the offices of city tax collector and city assessor. There is no more reason whatever to think or believe or claim that these offices would be created and filled if the charter should carry than to expect such a course to be pursued if the charter does not carry.

This is a fair sample of the misinformation and lack of information upon which Mr. Ballard's communication is based. "Go to any city where they have a city manager," says Mr. Ballard, "and you will find three-fourths of the small taxpayers" (who constitute a large majority of the voters) "against the city manager form of government."

Here Mr. Ballard contradicts himself; for if three-fourths of the small taxpayers were against it, the city, would not have had the city manager, in the first place, or, having him, it would promptly discontinue his services.

The fact is that, according to H. S. Gilbertson of the National Municipal League (1922 report), "No manager city has ever gone back to the old form."

Again, Mr. Ballard says that in cities having a city manager taxes have increased instead of decreased, the inference being that the increase has been caused by the city manager. Surely Mr. Ballard knows, as everyone knows, that taxes have increased everywhere, in cities having no city manager as well as in those in which the city manager form of government is in operation. Increase of taxes during the past few years has been economically inevitable. With the cost of every kind of material and commodity and all kinds of labor going up constantly there is no possible escape from increase of taxation.

Mr. Ballard says that Long Beach and Sacramento, which have city managers, would like to get rid of them. Undoubtedly people can be found in both of these cities who would express themselves dissatisfied with the city manager form of government. But I venture to say that a canvass of these cities among intelligent, progressive business men would find a great many more who would approve the city manager form of government than would disapprove.

Official reports from both of these cities show that tremendous savings have been effected by the adoption of straight-forward business methods in the transaction of city business.

During the first year under the city manager plan in Long Beach the revenues derived in the service departments were increased $50,000 over the previous year, and the income from fees was increased $12,624. In Sacramento, with only 41 per cent of the money allotted for operating expenses on hand to start with, a surplus of $28,882 was created by the end of the first six months under the city manager plan. Operating costs were reduced $111,896, as compared with the previous six months; and by a reorganization of departments a saving of $45,000 was made in salaries alone. The budget for the new fiscal year, starting January 1, 1922, was cut $182,281.00 below the inherited budget of 1921; and the tax rate for 1922 was cut 8 per cent over the hundred, along with $3,000,000 reduction in the assessed valuation of property, which represents another 3 per cent reduction in the amount to be paid by tax payers. And notwithstanding these tremendous reductions, provision was made for a $30,000.00 increase in police and fire departments. All of this saving is truly credited by intelligent citizens of Sacramento to the work of City Manager Clyde Seavey.

I give these instances because Mr. Ballard mentions Long Beach and Sacramento. Similar savings could be shown by the examination of the records of nearly every one of the city manager cities in this country, and especially those in California.

Mr. Ballard thinks it would "take too much red tape to get before his highness"—meaning the city manager. Just the reverse is true. Under the present system of government, when we desire to take up any matter with the city administration, if we go to a member of the council he refers us to the head of some department or says he will take it up with the head of some department or some other city officer. If we go to the head of a department or some other city officer, he may tell us that he will have to take it up with the council, or that we will have to see so and so about that. This "passing the buck" is, inevitable under our present form of government, and is no reflection upon the city trustees. There is an infinite division of authority and responsibility without any central authority or direct responsibility. With the city manager we could go direct to him on any matter of public business, except general policies and legislative matters, and he would have the authority to act and the power to get results.

Mr. Ballard tries to create the impression that the city charter is the child of the "ring." As a matter of fact it is the child of the civic affairs committee of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, and this committee is made up of representative men chosen from the various clubs and organizations of the city, including the Rotary Club, the Kiwanis Club, the Lions Club, the Realty Board, the Merchants and Manufacturers association, etc., etc.

When the charter was before the people something like a year and one-half ago, not only every club and organization in the city of a civic nature endorsed it, but it was endorsed also by every church brotherhood in the city but one, and that one did not oppose it. I have never known of a movement in public affairs that received such unanimous endorsement, and the only reason it was defeated is that those who favored it did not go to the polls and vote, while the opposition voted every man it could find.

Again Mr. Ballard says that under the present form of government "you can approach your councilman more as a neighbor." Well, under the charter we shall have a council just as we have now, and I can see no reason why we can't approach our councilman just as easily and readily as we always have been able to do.

Mr. Ballard naively asks, "If a city manager is good for a city, why not for the nation?" I believe there will be millions of people who will say "amen" to my reply, that a competent manager for the nation would be a good thing.

In conclusion I feel like apologizing to you and your readers for this long communication, but it did seem to me that someone should counteract the misleading tendency of Mr. Ballard's article—though of course I do not question his sincerity.

It's Up to You

By Berton Braley

Jim was just a little weak and just a little wild,
Jack was steadygoing as a clock,
Jim went to the city, where the hazling lights beguiled,

Jack stayed home and went to raising stock;
He worked and planned with clarity and won to great prosperity.

And he's a solid citizen today,
A pattern of propriety, of wisdom and sobriety,
An admirable sort in every way.

Jim was not successful in the city's stress and strife,
He couldn't keep his money or his job,

He made a mess of business and of morals and of life,
He's just a sort of wastrel in the mob;

Weak, reckless and importunate,
He's but one more unfortunate
Who couldn't stand the gaff—
and came to harm,

And home folks who referred to him said,
"All that has occurred to him is just because he went and left the farm!"

They blamed the wicked city for the ruining of Jim—
But I cannot somehow view it in that light,

For if Jack had sought the city—it would not have ruined him,
And I think he would have prospered
there, all right,
And if Jim had never blown away
I think he would have thrown away

His chances for acquiring honest
pep,
The place upon the map you are won't change the kind of chap you are,
Your destiny depends upon yourself!
